GREAT AIRSHIP FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO CROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN

BIG BRITISH DIRIGIBLE FLYING TO UNITED STATES.

BRITISH DIRIGIBLE CALLS FOR HELP WHEN IN SIGHT OF AMERICA

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, L. I., July 5—With in sight of American mainland and with victory almost won, the giant British dirigible, the R-34, is reported this afternoon to be stalled between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, over the Bay of Fundy. She was on the last lap of her history making trans-Atlantic flight and within a few more hours would have made Mineola where thousands of persons were waiting to receive her.

First reports that the dirigible was in trouble came to officials here through American naval wireless stations far up on the north Atlantic coast.

The naval wireless station at Ottercliff picked up this message from the ship:

"Could destroyer proceed to south end of Bay of Fundy to take his majesty's airship R-34 in tow?"

The naval wireless station here picked up another message from the R-34 as follows:

"Flying over Nova Scotia. Strong headwinds. Petrol running short."

Last direct word from the dirigible stated that she was off Sydney, N. S., at 8:45 o'clock last night and naval aviators figured today that, allowing an average speed, the big balloon could make the field by noon.

Thousands of persons gathered at the field and in the surrounding small villages were watching at dawn this morning for the first sight of the balloon. It is estimated that 200,000 persons will see the history-making machine anchor to her moorings here.

Radio men sat at their instruments here all last night, straining their ears for the first message from the R-34, but at 8 o'clock this morning there was still no word other than that reporting her position last night.

While the experts here were slightly worried at the continued silence of the dirigible's wireless, they have no doubt that everything is going well with the ship. They believe that after striking the Canadian mainland the R-34 probably turned straight down the coast. It was also considered possible that something may have gone wrong with her wireless, but if that be true, there would still be no cause for alarm as the weather is well-nigh perfect.

Mineloa and the surrounding countryside looked like a circus day in the pale morning light. Automobile parties having come from miles around to see the ship land. All the hotels of Mineloa, Westbury and other small towns are filled to overflowing.

A noticeable gathering of American army men are here to greet the British crew. General Charles P. Menoher, chief of the army air service, arrived from Washington early today, heading the army contingent. Rear Admiral James H. Glennon, commandant of the Third naval district, represented the navy. It was reported about the field that Secretary Baker and Secretary Daniels would be on hand to welcome the fliers, but they were not present this forenoon.

Radio stations far up on the coast reported today that they had caught faintly the R-34's wireless signals. The reports, however, did not state her position.

Lieut. Colonel Frederick Y. Lucas of the British royal force, was anxiously awaiting an answer to his message sent by wireless to Major G. H. Scott, commanding the R-34, but no answer had been received up to 8:30 p. m. He had asked Major Scott for his position and probable time of arrival.

Bill Foley's henchmen are looking forward to a real diamond battle when the Xenia Reserves clash with their Indianapolis namesakes in the biggest game yet staged at the Cincinnati avenue park, Sunday.

Anticipating a close controversy, Manager Foley has strengthened his team against coming of Hoosiers by acquiring one of the most formidable ball clubs that has yet represented this burg of peace and plenty on the skinned sand lot. With a two weeks' rest occasioned by the failure of the Dayton Old Superbas to show up for the scheduled conflict of last Sunday, the Reserves are on their toes for the fracas Sunday and are confident of giving the visitors a tussle for the honors.

Barnard and smiling Bill Kuntz will both be on hand to work on the slab, and it is not yet decided which one of the moundsmen will be thrust in the breach. It is practically decided that "Dokey" Randall, who has been hitting at a great clip this season, will nose behind the strikers and the infield will likely be the same as it has been, with "Deacon" Bath on the initial station, Stiles holding down the keystone sack, Leahy in the short field, and Weaver at the difficult corner.

There will likely be a shifted line-up in the gardens, but Manager Foley is not taking any chances in this department of the club and some high class fly chasers will be dominating the outfield when the arbitrator gives the word.

With everybody on their cleats, it looks as if the inter-state clash is going to be the biggest base ball event that has yet written itself on the

"SAFE AND SANE" FOURTH IN OHIO COSTS 7 LIVES

Cleveland, O., July 5.—Ohio's "safe and sane" Independence day celebration cost seven lives and the injury of 28 persons. Two more were killed close to the Ohio line in Pennsylvania.

An auto accident at Mansfield where a Pennsylvania train struck a machine load of happy picnickers resulted in the death of five and the injury of three.

At Youngstown, the explosion of an illuminated bomb resulted in the death of H. W. Strawsbaugh. Four persons were injured in fireworks accidents.

Collision of two automobiles on the Cleveland-Sandusky road near Huron caused severe injury of ten persons.

At Mansfield aviator Roy Gardner and his mechanic Ernest Price were painfully hurt when their machine fell 150 feet.

Fire chief F. F. Kunkle was badly burned at Port Clinton, while fighting a fire caused by an exploding fire-cracker.

Raymond Metcalf met death by drowning in Turkey foot Lake near Akron and two persons were seriously hurt in an auto accident at Akron.

Near Fremont five men enroute to the fight at Toledo were injured when their machine went into a ditch. They were able to continue after their injuries were dressed. Eleven year old Ralph Williams was run down by an automobile at Warren and badly injured.

Two were killed near the Ohio state line and four badly injured last night when an automobile jumped a sixty-foot embankment near Frankfort Springs, Pa. The occupants were pinned under the car.

HANDLEY-PAGE FORCED TO LAND

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, L. I., July 5.—The giant Handley-Page bombing plane, which left St. John's, N. F., late yesterday was forced to land at 5:30 o'clock this morning according to word reaching officials here early today. Officials were unable to learn where the landing was made.

The Handley-Page machine had intended to land at Roosevelt field and be on hand to welcome the R-34 when it arrived.

JAMESTOWN GLORIOUSLY CELEBRATES

Jamestown gloriously celebrated the glorious Fourth Friday and hundreds of people crowded the city all day for the big events planned as a homecoming for the soldiers.

The program was started in the morning when Lieut. Coons, from Camp Sherman, delivered an address at the Fairgrounds. Two good horse racing events also featured the program at the Fairgrounds.

Fifty returned soldiers from Jamestown, in uniform, proved an attraction at the fairgrounds, when they presented bayonet drill and afterwards showed skirmish formation and the method of "going over the top." They used army rifles and gave the crowds on hand a realistic idea of how the big work overseas was carried on.

Seventy returned soldiers in uniform were the guests of the Red Cross Committee at a four course banquet given at the Wickersham Hotel at six o'clock Friday evening. The affair was one of the most auspicious of the day and was a splendid welcoming banquet for the returned soldiers. Rev. McCreman gave the benediction and Dr. F. W. Ozan gave the address of welcome to the returning soldiers. The program was also interspersed with music.

Following the soldier banquet an immense fireworks display was given, the showing rivaling anything in the way of pyrotechnic displays ever shown in this county.

Ex-soldiers turned out a plenty for the home coming celebration, which coming as it did, on a soldier day, the Fourth of July, was happily arranged for and was a most enjoyable occasion. The streets were crowded all day Friday.

PRESIDENT DECIDES TO VISIT NEW YORK

Enroute to the United States with President Wilson, on board the U. S. S. George Washington, July 5.—(By wireless to New York)—A revision was made in President Wilson's plans today which will enable him to pay a brief visit to New York City when he lands at Hoboken next Tuesday. The president expects to go ashore shortly after noon and will proceed to Carnegie Hall in New York City where he will be formally welcomed by Gov. Smith of New York state. After a brief response Mr. Wilson will go to the Pennsylvania station and board a train for Washington.

The George Washington will be greeted outside of Ambrose channel by the Atlantic fleet.

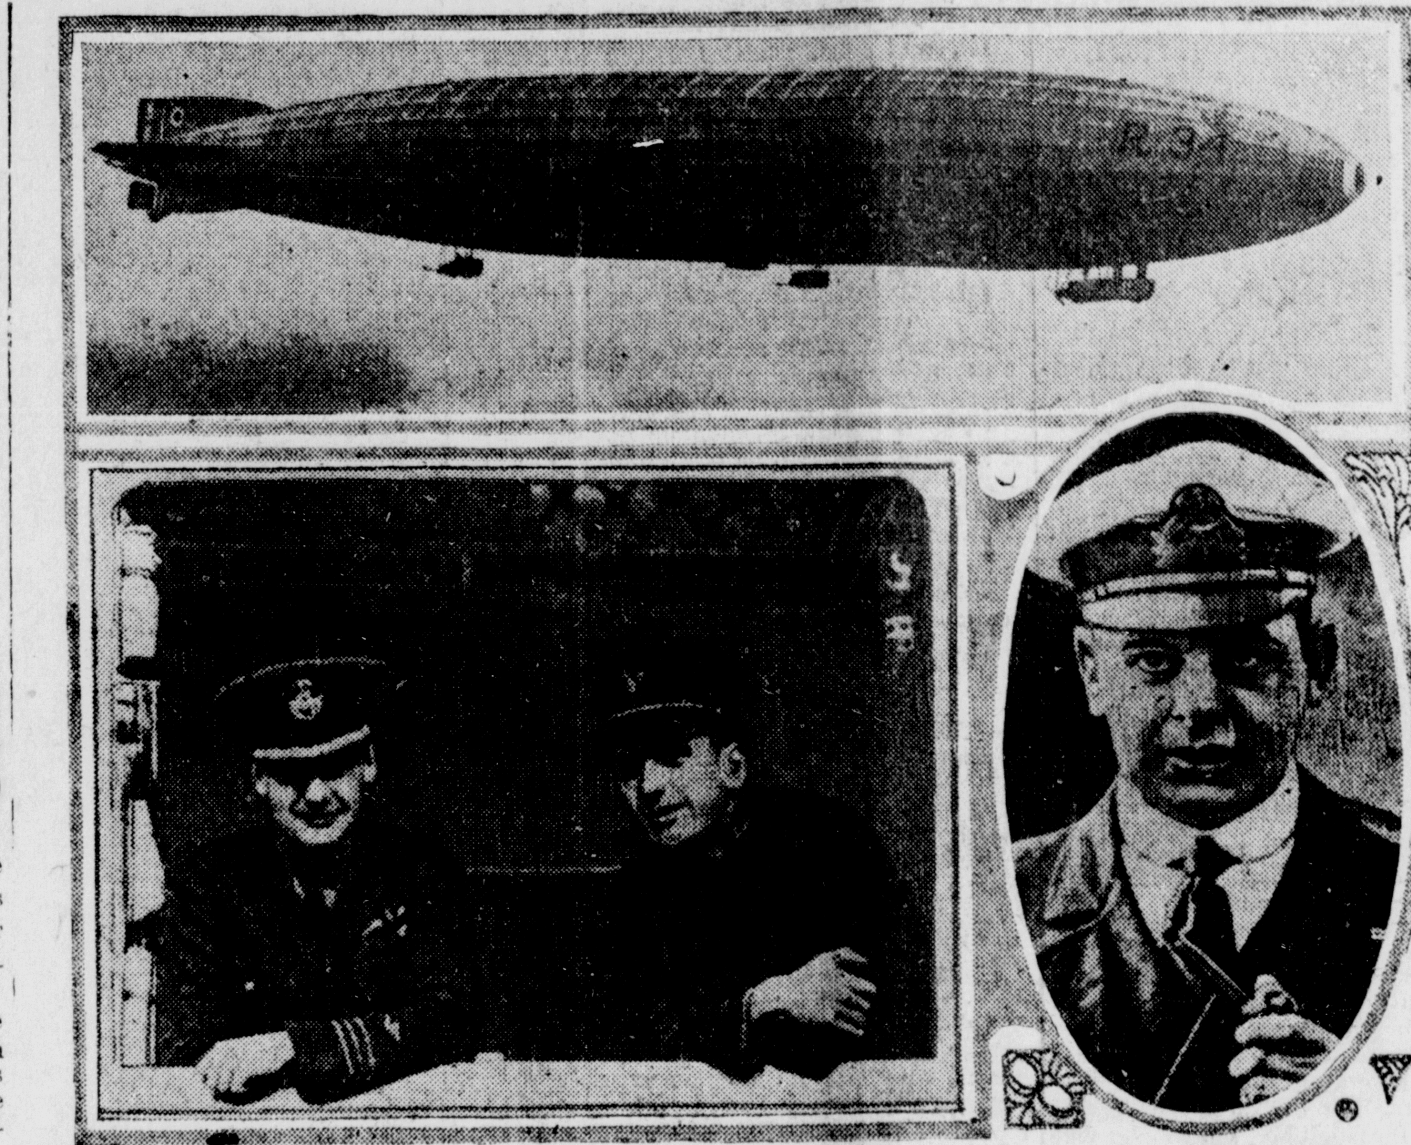

Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and other officials will go down to New York bay on the battleship Pennsylvania and be transferred to the George Washington before she docks. The secretaries are expected to accompany the president from Hoboken to New York City by automobile.

OLDEST PART OF TOWER OF LONDON READY FOR KAISER

London, July 5.—White Tower, the oldest part of the Tower of London, built by William the Conqueror is being prepared for the ex-kaiser when he is placed on trial before an international court in London, the Daily Express stated today. Suitable furniture is being installed and rooms are being made ready to house attendants.

No difficulty will be raised by the Dutch government in delivering the former German emperor to the Daily Express understands. It is understood he will be sent to the mouth of the Thames aboard a Dutch warship and there turned over to the British authorities.

It has been decided the Daily Express says, not to ask for the death penalty on account of opposition, some of which came from the United States.

R-34 and officers

The big British dirigible R-34 which is flying to the United States at the rate of forty miles an hour, and her officers, Major G. H. Scott, Royal Air Force, commander of the R-34 (right insert); Major Pritchard, Royal Air Force, and Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, U. S. N. (left insert). The officers are shown looking out of a window of the R-34's car. The R-34 is of the latest type of rigid dirigible lighter than air craft, stayed internally by a substantial framework whose buoyancy is derived from balloons inflated with hydrogen, stayed inside the outer envelope. She has been compared with the steamship Adriatic and is closely like that great vessel in length. From nose to tail she measure 639 feet. Her greatest diameter is 79 feet, and from the bottom of her amidships gondola to the highest point of the ship is a reach of 92 feet. Her total weight is thirty tons and she can carry a useful load of 21.21 tons.

MRS. MARY VANHORN DIES FRIDAY NIGHT AT HOME OF HER SON

Mrs. Mary VanHorn widow of Sylvester VanHorn, died at 8:57 o'clock Friday night at the home of her son, and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl VanHorn, 630 South Detroit street. She had been ill for three months, of a complication of troubles.

Mrs. VanHorn was born March 23, 1845, near Augusta, Ill. Her maiden name was Mary Griffiths. She lived in Illinois and Iowa until after her marriage, and about 40 years ago came to Xenia with her husband. They continued to live here and reared their family in Xenia. Mr. VanHorn died 20 years ago.

The death of Mrs. VanHorn is the fourth which has occurred in the family connection within a year. Her son, Amos VanHorn of St. Louis, died last April 10, being suddenly stricken while preparing to start for this city to see his mother. Two grandsons of Mrs. VanHorn, Glenn, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl VanHorn, and John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos VanHorn also died, the latter a sailor, going to his death, when the Ticonderoga was sunk by a German submarine.

Mrs. VanHorn was a member of the First Baptist church throughout her residence in Xenia. She was converted in Davis county, Iowa, in 1870, and became affiliated with the Christian church at that time. She remained a member of the Christian church until after coming to this city to live.

Four children survive her, William D., of Columbus; Walter of Cincinnati; Carl of this city, and Mrs. David Henshaw of Dayton.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Carl VanHorn, Monday at 3 o'clock. Friends may call from 3 until 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

C. L. DARLINGTON RETURNING TO U. S.

Captain Charles L. Darlington is a passenger on the steamer Leviathan, which is due to arrive in New York Sunday. A wireless message bearing the information that he was aboard the big ship on his way home, was received from him Friday by Mrs. Darlington, who is ill in Cincinnati. His mother, Mrs. Charles Darlington, Sr., of this city, made plans at once to go to New York to meet her son, and left Xenia at 7 o'clock Friday night. Captain Darlington has been in France and Germany about a year and a half. He was located at Camp Grant, Ill., before sailing. He is one of Xenia's most popular soldiers, and his friends here are eager to welcome him back home.

NOT SENATOR'S SON
Los Angeles, Cal., July 5.—Harry S. New, Jr., self confessed slayer of his sweetheart, Miss Freida B. Lesser, is not the son of United States Senator New, of Indiana, despite his claims, according to telegrams received in Los Angeles today.

AGED WARRIOR ALIVE

Junction City, Kan., July 5.—John Allen, sixty-four, who two years ago made a trip in a box car from this city to New York to enlist in the army, is not dead as reported. He expects to return to this city as soon as he is mustered out of the service.

Allen wrote to friends here, from London, where he is staying at the home of a brother, whom he had not seen for forty years, that he was alive.

RICHARD LEWIS DIES AT INDUSTRIAL HOME

Richard Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, of the Trebein road, four miles west of Xenia, died at the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Death was due to typhoid fever from which he had been suffering for three weeks.

Richard was 16 years of age at the time of his death. The body will arrive in this city Saturday evening. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

JOHN BUSHNELL WILL STAND TRIAL ON SPEEDING CHARGE

John Bushnell, wealthy Springfield citizen, was in police court Saturday morning for the hearing of the case in which he is defendant charged with speeding. He pleaded not guilty and the trial was set for Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Bushnell was arrested Wednesday by Speed Officer Clark Stethem when he was driving at an excessive rate of speed. He claims that he was only going 23 miles an hour which is faster than the law permits even under the new law which becomes effective Sunday. He also alleges that Officer Stethem used a revolver in forcing him to stop after he had started again when being told of the offense by the officer.

Attorney Marcus Shoup of this city is representing Mr. Bushnell in conjunction with a Springfield attorney.

NO INJURIES ARE REPORTED IN XENIA ON FOURTH OF JULY

If results here can be taken as a criterion of the country at large, the number of accidents and deaths from fireworks this year will be reduced to a minimum.

The amount of noise would not compare with former years and it seemed as if there were more fire crackers shot off before the Fourth than on the big day itself. There were no reports of serious burns or injuries due to the fireworks, which in itself is an odd fact.

The heat and the popularity of the parks contributed to make Xenia comparatively quiet Friday.

FOUR YOUNG XENIA PEOPLE IN ACCIDENT BUT THEY ARE UNHURT

Misses Mary Mannington and Doris Whittington and Walker Whittington and Richard O. Fay miraculously escaped uninjured when the special built speedster owned and driven by Mr. Fay ran off the road and turned over, throwing out the occupants, at a point near Old Town.

The accident happened when the steering gear broke and the driver lost control of the machine. The party was returning from London, where they had spent the day at the Fourth of July celebration and the dance there Friday night and were returning home, coming by way of Springfield.

Near Old Town the steering gear became crippled and the machine crashed off the road and turned over. Not a one of the occupants was injured although the machine was badly damaged. The passengers were brought to Xenia by a passing auto.

ELEVENTH HOUR EFFORT BEING MADE TO BLOCK STRIKE

Cleveland, July 5.—In an eleventh hour attempt to prevent the street car strike scheduled in Cleveland for 4 a. m. Sunday, city council met today. Difficulty was experienced in securing a quorum as many members of the body were away for the week end.

Mayor Harry L. Davis attended the meeting and it was confidently expected that should council be unable to force an amicable settlement between the company and its employees, that he will take a hand.

Meanwhile both company and men were standing firm. The company through its officials maintained that in as much as council refused an additional operating appropriation and insisted upon a reduction in rates, they are unable to consider the men's demands.

The men, who have voted practically unanimously for a strike, refuse to consider any settlement other than the granting of their demands for a 12-cent an hour increase in wages.

It was considered possible that council may give the company unequivocal assurance that sufficient operation allowance will be made for any wage increase they incur and thus avert the strike. However, the company is also insisting that they be allowed a one per cent dividend increase.

ACCEPTS RESPONSIBILITY.

Copenhagen, July 5.—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, former chief of staff of the German army, who has just retired to private life at Hanover, has telegraphed to President Ebert accepting responsibility for all acts and decisions of German army headquarters subsequent to August, 1916.

SCORES ARRESTED FOR RIOTING IN CITY OF FLORENCE

Rome, July 5.—Scores of persons were arrested at Florence today as a result of the rioting and looting which held the city in a grip of terror on Thursday and Friday. Several persons were injured in clashes between mobs and the police. The authorities had a difficult time suppressing the pillaging.

The trouble arose over the high cost of available foodstuffs.

MRS. JAS. McCaffery DIES FRIDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Catherine McCaffery, wife of James McCaffery, died at her home in Spring Valley at 8 o'clock Friday night, after one month's illness of heart trouble and complications.

Mrs. McCaffery was a native of County Cavan, Ireland, coming to this country when she was a young girl. She passed the seventy-fourth anniversary of her birth last March 25. For the last 29 years her home had been in Spring Valley, the family moving to this county from South Charleston. Mr. McCaffery was for years a foreman on the Cincinnati division of the Pan Handle railroad, and well known in this city. He is now retired.

With her husband, the following children survive Mrs. McCaffery: Mrs. William Plunkett, Mrs. Robert Glynn, James McCaffery, all of Dayton; and Lawrence McCaffery of Oregon. She leaves two brothers, Matthew and Anthony Tierney of South Charleston, nine grandchildren and one great grandchild, the child of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Adsit of Dayton.

The body will be removed at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon to the home of Mrs. Robert Glynn, 354 Creighton avenue, Dayton. Funeral services will be held at the home at 8 o'clock Monday and at 8:30 at Sacred Heart church. Interment in Calvary cemetery.

FARMER FALLS DEAD IN THE WHEAT FIELD

Absalom Chenoweth, father of Roy Chenoweth of East Third street this city, fell dead in a harvest field at the home of a neighbor near Waynesville, while assisting in gathering the wheat crop, Friday. He was found dead by other men in the field.

Mr. Chenoweth had been suffering from heart trouble and complications for some time, but he insisted upon going into the wheat field yesterday to help his neighbor. The extreme heat is supposed to have caused heart failure.

Mr. Chenoweth is survived by his widow and three sons; Roy of this city; John of Detroit and Howard at Home. Roy Chenoweth went to Waynesville upon receiving news of his father's death.

pages of the local history of the national pastime.

OLD SOL COOKS JULY FOURTH CROWDS TO CRISP FRIZZLE

Holiday pleasure seekers sweltered under the hottest sun of the summer Friday.

Fourth of July lived up to its reputation for a high temperature by shooting the mercury up to 98 degrees above nothing in the shade. The sun was boiling hot and there was no breeze.

Heat did not affect the size of crowds of people seeking succor from work and worry, who sought out pleasure resorts by the thousands despite the hot weather.

The day was easily the hottest of the season here. No heat prostrations were reported however.

Michelin Tubes being made full-sized fill the inside of the casing even before inflation.

Other tubes, being smaller in diameter than Michelins, must be stretched by inflation to fill the casing. The flexing of these stretched tubes under constant tension when inflated causes destructive heating which kills all the natural life and resiliency of the rubber, making it porous and less resistant to cuts and punctures.

Michelin Tubes, being full-sized, are free from these disadvantages. Insist on Michelins—the full-sized inner tubes.

It always pays to take your plans and specifications up with a reputable lumber dealer before you make important decisions. It saves you money. It often saves life-long regret.

INVENTIVE genius as yet has devised nothing better for the blacksmith than the common anvil. Likewise no development in the building material industry has brought to light a material better than GOOD LUMBER.

OUT in Dedham, Massachusetts, there stands today a house which was erected in 1636. It is now 281 years old. IT IS BUILT OF LUMBER and it is a comfortable home today. Some people decry wood as a building material, saying that such is not as durable and as dependable as other kinds. But this old dwelling at Dedham seems to refute all criticism, standing against the storm of the elements intact for nearly 300 years.

THERE are many secrets about correct building. Important among them is the art of choosing the right kind of wood for each especial purpose to which it is to be applied. Inexperience often costs the builder money. Maple, for instance is more expensive than pine, yet maple, while best for the floor, is wholly unserviceable when exposed.

ALL of which establishes two important points in building. The first is that lumber, being light, dry, adaptable to every purpose, and well within the reach of every purse IS THE CORRECT MATERIAL. The second is that it always pays to consult a reputable lumber dealer with regard to your building plans before making important decisions. Regrets are without avail after the house is finished. The time to take precautions is before the first nail is driven.

We handle good lumber. Manufactured for us at our own mills; cut from an all but inexhaustible supply of raw material; the product of the most modern machinery it comes direct to us standardized, guaranteed as to quality, free from the possibility of waste as can easily accrue through improper sawing and unburdened by the tax of the middle man. Common business methods dictate that you consult us before you buy.

DEMPSEY DEFEATS WILLARD IN THREE ROUNDS

GIANT KANSAN SENT TO MAT REPEATEDLY BY MIGHTY DEMPSEY

Toledo, O., July 5.—By virtue of one of the speediest and most one-sided events, Jack Dempsey, who may now wish to be known by his full voting name of William Harrison Dempsey, yesterday became the world's champion heavyweight boxer.

To all intents and purposes he whipped the huge Jess Willard, favorite in the meager betting in one round. Dempsey thought the referee had announced him winner, and actually left the ring. But he was called back and the butchery continued for two rounds more, when Jess, sitting in his corner with a bewildered look on his swollen countenance, failed to respond to the gong for the fourth round.

"It was no use to continue," said the ex-champion. "My strength went out in the first round."

He sat there apparently the most surprised man in the United States at the moment. His right eye was closed and his right cheek swollen and blue with bruises. Blood covered his body and his arms hung so helplessly over the ropes that it seemed as if a child might give him further abuse without arousing his interest.

Dempsey was breathing hard when the fight ended, but it was from exertion and not from punishment. He escaped almost unhurt but as he had used his arms like trip hammers on the anatomy of his opponent for nine crowded minutes in a sun that sent the thermometer to 110 degrees, his heart was still pumping at high pressure and he appreciated the breathing spell.

In the first few seconds of the contest it looked as if the experts who had been assigned to keep detailed account of all blows struck might come measurably close to doing so, but it was only for a fraction of a moment. After that the experts did well to count Jack's blows let alone take note of how each was made. The challenger knocked the big fellow down five times in the first round and had him hanging helplessly on the ropes or draped over his own shoulders most of the time when he was not taking advantage of the count.

The crowd thought the fight was over in that round. Willard was down for the seventh time and the count was apparently about to end when the gong sounded. It was a modest gong which couldn't make itself heard before so many people, and even Dempsey didn't get it. He crawled through the ropes and was headed out onto the shoulders of screaming fans when the truth was broken to him and he was hauled back.

Such fighting as the Kansas ranch man produced was placed on exhibition at the onset. He had stood in his corner a picture of confidence. His smile seemed that of one who had a brief and not unpleasant task before him. He certainly was all set to go for just before time was called he was heard to remark, "Let's get this thing over."

He measured the attendance, which disappointed estimates by about 50 per cent, with an appraising eye.

Dempsey presented a contrast. None of the confidence of his training camp statements appeared in his bearing. The man across from him outweighed him forty pounds and looked as big and impregnable as a metropolitan bank building. The mood of the challenger was plainly thoughtful, and more than one ringside of gaze whispered, "He's liked right now."

Fans Want Fight Stopped.

When they were introduced, Jess sauntered over with the cordial manner of one desiring to reassure a youngster, and took his hands in the friendliest way. Jack's handshake was friendly, too, just then, but it was the last token of friendship from those gloves. A minute or so later they were using Willard for a chopping block and some in the crowd were crying, "Stop it! Stop it! It's plain murder!"

Dempsey's first effective blows, and the ones which apparently settled Willard's fate, were a right over Jess' shoulder to the jaw, a left to the body and a right to the jaw. Jess staggered. His eye was closing and he reeled, and the challenger, with all the energy of his pulsing youth began hitting him at will.

The attendance was below expectations. Seats were built for eighty thousand, and the estimate was that not more than half of these were occupied. Speculators lost heavily. They resold their tickets at anything from $5 to $15 under gate prices. No betting was reported at the ringside, nor was there much elsewhere so far as could be ascertained.

STATEMENTS BY THE FIGHTERS

Dempsey says: "I told you I would knock him out in the first round, and to all intents and purposes that is what I did."

"He took a lot of punishment in the next two rounds, but was so feeble that I hated to have to hit him."

"Willard is a game fellow," Dempsey declared. "I never handed out more punishment to anyone and have him come back for more, as Willard did today."

Willard says: "In the first round when Dempsey hit me with a left hook I tried hard to continue, but I was rapidly losing my strength. My eye was closed at the end of the third

JACK DEMPSEY, WORLD'S NEW HEAVY WEIGHT CHAMPION

Jack Dempsey clearly demonstrated on July 4th at Toledo that he is the fightiest scrapper who ever stepped into a squared ring. He made good his promise to beat Willard and the gong was all that saved Willard from being beaten by the knockout route in the first round.

round and I realized that it would be useless for me to continue, as I could hardly see. It is hard to admit defeat, but Dempsey is the hardest puncher I ever faced."

"Dempsey is a remarkable hitter. It was the first time that I had been knocked off my feet. I have sent many 'birds' home in the same bruised condition that I am in now, and I know how they felt. I sincerely wish Dempsey all of the luck possible, and hope that he garners of the riches that go with the championship. I have had my fling at the title. I was champion for four years. And I want to assure you that they'll never have to give a benefit for me, I have invested the money I've made."

When the beaten champion motored to his home with Ray O. Archer, his business manager, his sparring partners, the porches adjoining the Willard house were alive with women dabbling their eyes with handkerchiefs.

"It seems as if there has been a death in the neighborhood," one of them said.

"Well, I tried it once too often," was the greeting Willard gave them.

The ex-champion had a Turkish towel draped over his head to obscure his bruised face. He does not expect to leave Toledo for three or four days.

Jack Kearns, the manager for the new champion, says: "Jack is a real champion. He knocked Willard out twice. They gave us the fight in that round, then brought us back with the bell and Jack got him again in the third. Dempsey will be a popular champion."

JAMESTOWN

Lieutenant Carl Paullin, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., is home for a brief vacation with his mother, Mrs. Theodore Paullin and family.

The families of S. A. Brown and Archie McFarland visited with Dayton relatives on Tuesday.

Mrs. G. R. Bargdill has gone to London, to visit with her sister, Mrs. Vinnie Phifer. Mrs. Bargdill will also attend the sessions of the Centenary at Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wathall are the guests of relatives this week at Lima.

Mrs. Nettie Myers, and daughter, Mrs. Ray Cushman, were Dayton and Xenia visitors the first of the week.

The aged Mrs. Eddington, who is now at the McClellan hospital at Xenia, for treatment having had a fall which injured her hip, is resting comfortably. Mrs. Eddington has reached the age of 87, so her recovery will be slow.

C. H. Benegar, manager of the opera house, expects soon to give two days of entertainment, "The Heart of Humanity," which will be one of the best summer attractions shown at the local play house.

Dr. and Mrs. Glen K. Dennis of Wilmington, spent the Fourth in Jamestown with the home folks.

Lieut. Keith Moore has returned from the Ellington Field, Texas, having received an indefinite discharge. He is a member of the reserve aviation corps.

A few ex-pupils of the O. S. and S. O. Home at Xenia of this community, attended the annual reunion this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Flax of Dayton have been visiting with relatives here.

Mr. C. H. Benegar deserves the thanks of every one for remodeling the floor of the opera house—removing the steps in the aisles, which have always been a menace, and which have caused people to fall, some of them being seriously injured. Yet this is only a drop in the bucket to what needs to be done. The interior and the condition of the rostrum is a disgrace to Jamestown, and is commented upon by strangers who come into the building.

Mr. John Paullin, who has been a representative of the Goodyear Rubber Company, at Akron, since coming home from overseas, was home for the Fourth with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Paullin. Mr. Paullin has been in Buffalo, N. Y., in the sales office of the company in that city.

On Monday evening, Miss Cleo Zeiner delightfully entertained a number of friends with a lawn party, at her beautiful home on West Main street. The lawn was decorated with Japanese lanterns which made an attractive setting for the dancing on the spacious porch. Wild roses and hydrangeas prettily made up other decorations. Cooling refreshments were served on the lawn. Miss Zeiner entertained for Robert Harcourt, of Delaware, who is spending a few days in Jamestown.

Mr. Jack Hayes, who recently returned from overseas, came from his home at Harrisburg, Va., spending the Fourth with his many friends here.

MRS. WILLARD GLAD JESS CHAMP NO MORE

Toledo, July 5.—There is one woman in Toledo happy because Jess Willard is no longer world's heavyweight champion. She is the wife of the vanquished title holder, and mother of his five children. She left them at their home in Lawrence, Kas., came to Toledo unannounced and with Willard's attorney, occupied a seat in the $50 section while her husband was being battered to defeat. No one in the huge crowd, except the champion himself, knew she was there. When the bruised and battered giant of the ring was brought to the home he had occupied in Toledo's exclusive residential district, Mrs. Willard was there, eager to care for his wounds. She put him on a davenport and sat at his side, applying soothing iced cloths to his closed eye.

Mrs. Willard left the sun-baked arena after the towel was cast into the ring at the start of the fourth round, while the beaten champion was taken to the Casino, his training camp for a month, where he was bathed and first aid given his injuries.

"I am sorry that Jess was beaten, but I can't truthfully say I am happy that he's no longer champion," Mrs. Willard said.

SIX HUNDRED FANS GET FIGHT RETURNS AT GAZETTE OFFICE

Braving the heat which streamed down on the paved streets on Detroit street, six hundred fight fans gathered in front of the offices of the Gazette and the Republican to take advantage of the service offered by these papers on the big Toledo fight.

Owing to the size of the crowd, which would not enable the people in the rear to get close enough to see bulletins on the window, the announcements were made by use of megaphone from an upstairs window. As quickly as the returns were received they were announced to the crowd and during the period intervening the excitement was intense.

The size of the crowd went even beyond the expectations of everyone, considering the number of people who were out of the city at the parks and seeking other forms of amusement. However the fight fans would not be denied and they gathered early to get the information from the big fight.

While there were a number of Willard backers in this section, it is thought the majority of the betting was on Dempsey, and for this reason the result of the big battle was generally satisfactory to the crowd which awaited the results.

The news of the outcome was quickly spread as soon as the final returns were made, showing that Willard had tossed up the sponge, and people in the parks and outside of Xenia were quickly aware of the outcome.

The service supplied by the Gazette and Republican kept the office open on a legal holiday and cheated several of the newspaper men from a part of their holiday, but the general satisfaction obtained in supplying the information for such a large crowd, was well worth the sacrifice.

XENIANS WHO SEE WILLARD DEMPSEY FIGHT GIVE IMPRESSIONS OF BOUT

Many a man went to the Willard-Dempsey championship bout toting along a large enthusiasm for the pugilistic game and came away after the fight declaring that he didn't care if he ever saw another fight. Several Xenians were among the fans at the ring side and they all express themselves as disgusted with the boxing game as demonstrated by big Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey, the new champion. Instead of a high class boxing match which everyone had a right to expect to see the thousands of fans who circled the fighting ring were treated to a sickening, bloody, slugging match which was more disgusting than entertaining.

When Willard and Dempsey entered the ring the great crowd gasped at the magnificent physique of Willard and marveled at the wonderful physical development of Jack Dempsey. Truly two more splendid specimens of physical manhood never stepped into a squared ring since the history of pugilism began. Willard, who is a handsome man towered above everyone else in the ring and as he stood smiling down on friends he recognized at the ring side, he looked more like a business man who had put on fighting togs for a little friendly boxing match than a real fighter.

Dempsey was less at ease. He hung his head and kept shifting his feet about, being noticeably greatly excited and very nervous. And well he might be nervous, when he looked across the ring at his giant adversary who stood unconcerned chatting with his friends and apparently possessed of utmost confidence that Dempsey would be a toy in his massive hands.

As the fighters stood in the ring even the most ardent Dempsey fans were heard to express pity for Dempsey when they saw the giant Willard looming over him. Dempsey was an object of pity only for a few moments, and after that Willard became the most pitiable object ever seen in a prize ring.

When Willard first entered the ring he showed that he was a good sport by the friendly manner in which he walked entirely across the ring to Dempsey's corner and shook hands with him with a broad and really friendly smile on his face.

When the gong sounded for the first round Willard stepped to the center of the ring with a pleasant but earnest expression on his face. Within a few moments that pleasant smile was wiped away and a lig of utter bewilderment took its place. Willard stung Dempsey first with a couple of his famous left arm jabs but not enough to hurt him badly. These were the only punches redelivered while in "his right mind." Directly afterward Dempsey sent a sickening blow to the big man's stomach and like a flash followed it up with two wicked right hand blows to the champion's chin. It was then that the "human mountain" had his first experience of feeling his knees go out from him while his massive body crumpled to the mat. With the thoroughly aroused Dempsey hovering over him he gamely tried to rise only to be brutally beaten back to the mat. It was a terrible exhibition of a victor unmercifully beating a half dazed and weakened opponent. While many spectators yelled "Stop At!" "Stop it!" Dempsey continued to beat down his opponent flooring him seven times. When the gong finally rang, Willard was flat on the floor and was taking the long, long count. The gong saved him and his seconds gathered him up and assisted him to his corner, while the crowd went wild. Many believed the fight was over and started to leave the arena when the victorious Dempsey and the sadly weakened Willard were again called into the ring. The second round was tame, both men going into frequent clinches and doing each other very little damage. In the third Jess was still handling himself like a man in a stupor. His legs were wobbly and his face carried an expression of utter astonishment. His right eye was completely closed and the left one stared at Dempsey with the fixity of a man in a trance. Dempsey tore into his weakened adversary in this round and meted out terrible punishment to him. When the round ended Willard was ready to collapse and staggered to his corner where his head sank on his breast.

Some say Willard was not game, but Xenians who saw the fight say no man could have shown greater gameness. He took a beating that no other living man could have taken and lived and still fought on for two rounds when he was half stunned. He simply met a better man than himself and he took a worse beating in three rounds than Jim Jeffries took in fourteen rounds when he lost the championship belt. His seconds threw up the sponge for the simple reason that Willard was so weak he could not drag himself to his feet when the gong sounded for the fourth round. He did not quit. He was simply outclassed.

This picture shows how Jess Willard finished the first round of his losing battle. He had been flogged by Dempsey's pile-driver blows to the head and Referee Ollie P. Ford, in center, was counting Jess out when the bell saved Willard. Dempsey is waiting for Willard to rise. The Central Press Association of Cleveland, one of the three companies from which the Gazette and Republican receives news picture services, deserves the credit for the quick release of the above picture. CLAIM THAT $2.26 WHEAT BRINGS PROSPERITY TO ONE CLASS AND HARD-SHIP TO EVERYBODY ELSE.

Harper's Magazine for July has an elaborate article on "Business Activities," as manifested in financial circles by J. G. Dater, which is attracting much attention. The industrial activity of the nation is attributed to the enormous wealth of the farming and working classes, creating a buying power larger than ever before. They have the money and have a mania for spending it, hence it is that though prices are very high, the shelves of retail stores are swept by the buyers. Some New York stores report a business two-thirds larger than a year ago, and the Chicago department stores report business 25 to 50 per cent above 1918.

That there is an immense amount of wealth in the country is indicated by the bank clearings for the year 1918, which were $7,729,912,000, as compared with those of the year 1912 which were $3,347,488,000. This speaks eloquently of the expanded volume of business, showing that the country is rich and is spending its money freely.

When you take into consideration the fact that prices are from 50 to 200 per cent above pre-war level, and ask whether the purchases have been made with due regard to economy, that is another question. Whether it be clothing, or dresses, or shoes, or automobiles, the purchasers have the money and are ready to spend it. Crops were never so abundant or promising, and farm values have not been so high in years, and the same is true of wages.

There is no unemployment now anywhere worthy the name, but to the contrary there is marked shortage of labor throughout the land, and it is exceedingly difficult from one end of the country to the other, to obtain farm hands or domestic servants, even on the basis of extravagant wages. It is clear that this industrial revival is due to the buying by the farmer and wage workers. Mr. Dater says:

"Whether this or any other country can adjust itself permanently or for a considerable period to a basis of exorbitant prices is a question which time alone can answer. The truth is, of course, that the community appears to have accepted the higher values, without any great difficulty. Nor is there likely to be any material contraction in wages while the Government guarantee of $2.26 a bushel for wheat continues. As long as this uneconomic measure interferes with supply and demand there can be no reduction in bread-stuffs and food products. This will have the tendency to hold everything at a high level and increase the cost of living, which stands now as the greatest obstacle in the way of a wage adjustment.

"Whether a situation such as this—a situation where many millions are burdened for the benefit of a special class—spells prosperity is a question which the future alone can answer. Thoughtful and prudent observers will hesitate in giving an opinion, realizing that while a day of reckoning must come that it may be long deferred, and realizing also that during the period of deference industry may gain such headway that no one will feel disposed to split hairs over it, but will come to regard it as an era of very great prosperity. But this artificial stimulus cannot affect all members of the community alike; there must be countless workers, to whom the high prices are a burden, not a blessing, whose incomes are fixed but whose expenses are doubled, and can experience little of satisfaction in a situation like this."

These are not the words of this newspaper, but those of a supposed, by able financial writer in one of our leading magazines. Doubtless many will not agree with his views, but it is a newspaper's province to give different phases of a subject, leaving its intelligent readers to make their own criticism.

Do We Eat Too Much?

One meal a day was the custom of the Greek patricians; the soldiers and plebeians had two; only the raffish of the population ate three. And the Greek patricians were the healthiest of the population, and lived the longest. The moral is obvious—if you want to ably it.

BURBANK THE PLANT WIZARD.

There is an interesting article in the American Magazine on "Burbank at Seventy," which recites some of the struggles of the "plant wizard." At the beginning of his career he took a potato and cultivated it, and by painstaking experimentation he developed it into what is known as the Burbank potato, of which five hundred million bushels have already been sold. He sold that plant for $125 and spent the money on a trip to California in search of health and to find a larger field for nursery work.

After a terrible struggle against poverty and sickness he got a good start under the following circumstances: A fruit-grower was making the rounds of the California nurseries looking for twenty thousand young prune trees to be ready for planting in ten months. Not a nursery would undertake so impossible a task, but when Burbank, owner of the Santa Rosa, heard of this man he sought him and took the contract to furnish the trees. He planted almonds because they were of hurried growth, and when they sprouted they were removed to the nursery rows. Then he secured from the surrounding orchards prune buds. These were budded into the almond trees, and the tops of the young trees were broken off, which caused them to make a new growth. In a little over half of the ten months' limit young Burbank had delivered 19,023 prune trees ready for planting.

That was the beginning of his fortune and his fame. He claims that he is no "wizard;" that what he has done has been done by hard work for the last forty years at ten to fourteen hours' work a day. But in his modesty he has minimized the real genius which he possesses, which makes him the master of the field and the benefactor of the race, and gives to Santa Rosa its world-wide fame.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS

BY JANE PHELPS.

EVERETT PROPOSES.

CHAPTER V.

I was delighted at the way Everett had ended his second letter. "Your fond friend," what could be nicer? It was different, too. Most letters I ever had either received or seen had been closed with "Yours sincerely," or "Very truly," or some other stereotyped phrase. I showed the few words at the close to Rose Grandon, because she was my chum. I was sorry that I did. She said she thought it silly for a man as old as Everett to write to me at all. I was angry with her for the first time since we were tiny girls. I wouldn't speak to her for two days.

I wonder if any one who reads my story will be interested in these little insignificant things I am telling so that what comes after may be plainer to them? I envy the REAL story writer who understands the technique of telling a story so that it will interest the public; yet perhaps a true story like mine may help some other girl to avoid my mistakes, and so he saved the sorrow that came to me because of them.

I always felt cross when Rose called Everett "old." Really after a little I had not thought of him as old at all. Just as fine and so wonderfully wise. That feeling I now know was caused more by his charm of manner when he exerted himself to please, than by anything he said.

Of course, I couldn't act with him as I did with the town boys. I shouldn't have dared. No girl of eighteen would have taken any liberties with a man as dignified as was Everett Graham. Yet after all his dignity was a source of pride to me.

Now for another three weeks we corresponded regularly. Then the last of August he came to Lakeville again. This time for a two weeks' visit.

When he came to the house he did not spend much time talking to father as he had on his former visits. But asked for me immediately. To be honest he had to ask very seldom, as I was usually watching for him about the hour he called, and would walk to the gate to meet him.

He hardly looked at anyone but me this visit, although several of the girls acted anxious to be with him and talk to him—and that in spite of calling him "Grandpa."

Then one day he came when I was over making up with Rose. On my return I found him talking very earnestly with father.

"Come here Sandra, father said very gently, his voice somehow different than I ever had heard it. "Mr. Graham has asked my permission to marry you—if you care enough for him," he added, as I made no reply. I couldn't! I was so astonished, so flattered, a good deal frightened, and a tiny bit glad.

That sounds like a regular hash, doesn't it? But that was the way it affected me.

"Can you care for me enough to marry me, Sandra?" Everett asked, taking my hand.

"I think so—yes, I think I can," I stammered, flushing and trembling. I remember that there flashed through my mind a wish that he had made love to me before he said anything about marrying, like they did in the novels I had read. Then came the other thought: that perhaps that was the way men of his age did. Maybe they didn't talk much about love, until after they were married. Perhaps they didn't think it was dignified.

So although I scarcely realized how it could have happened so quickly, when Everett left that afternoon I was engaged to him. He must have been awfully sure of me I thought, because he had a wonderful solitaire in his pocket. When I looked at it sparkling on my finger I knew that it would make all the girls envious.

But after I went to bed that night I cried a little when I thought of that other wife. She had been first. Toodles had grinned when he saw my ring, and although he liked Everett, he had said:

"So you're going to play second fiddle, are you, Sandra?"

Tomorrow—"Playing Second Fiddle" Is Sandra's One Worry.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED AT A CHARMING PARTY

A Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" Touring car is a profitable investment, for it yields substantial dividends in efficient service.

It is a safe investment, for the excellence of its construction protects its utility.

It is an attractive investment, for the body has a beauty and richness of finish quite unusual with cars of its price.

It is an economical investment, for its first cost is modest and its upkeep low.

Nothing New Under the Sun.

We have inherited, it appears, a great box of playthings, and the careful student of history will find that none of the toys are new—that they have indeed been played with by our forefathers, who did just as we do. They took each toy from the box and cried aloud that it was new, that the world had never seen its like before. Had it not, indeed? Then presently the toy—be it charity, or a new religion, or sentiment, or greed of gain, or war—is thrown back into the box again, where it lies until we on a later day drag it forth, with the same cry that it is new.—Exchange.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN OF RUSS TOWNSHIP AT G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

Although he is a Confederate veteran, Harvey Cummings, prominent Ross township farmer and stock man, never misses a state encampment of the Ohio G. A. R. While he was in Lima at the encampment recently he was featured as follows in a story in the Lima Evening Times:

Who would be the very last person to expect to find in attendance at a G. A. R. encampment?

A Confederate soldier!

Sure! But he's here, and it's a good bet that he's enjoying the encampment fully as much as any of the northern soldiers.

His name is Harvey Cummings, and his home is down near Jamestown, in Greene county, Ohio. Cummings has a striking appearance. He has pure white hair, is very tall and straight as an arrow, and in characteristic Virginia fashion, winter or summer, wears boots. He is distinguished looking and you would pick him out of any crowd. His big southern hat and his "Yes, suh," makes you want to call him colonel.

Enters as Boy
When the Civil War broke out Cummings lived in Virginia. He was only 15 years old, but he thought the South was right and he offered his life to further its contentions.

He bore a charmed life all through the great conflict. He seemed to be able to get in all the big battles without the least effort. If there was going to be a real engagement, somehow his regiment was moved over to take part in it.

Cummings had narrow escapes galore. Of the regiment he started out with, but few went home after the war. They remained where they were.

The tall Southern Ohioan knows what war means. He knows what it is to sleep on the ground with nothing over and under you when the rain beats down and the shells from the enemy come over with great regularity. He knows what it is to see his close friends fall one by one; to lose his "buddy" and his chums. You can't tell him anything about war or about starvation—he was on the losing side!

Comes North.
But did Cummings decide to spend the rest of his days moping down in Virginia because the Yanks gave him and his friends a good licking?

Not on your life. Thrilled with the belief that the world was wide and that there might be something "up north" for him, after all, that was worth while, Cummings came direct to the little town of Jamestown after the war.

He tells himself that he had just 29 cents in his pocket when the landed in the little Southern Ohio town. He had come to make his fortune, but right at that time he was just a little fearful that fortune wasn't going to beckon to him for some time to come.

Goes on Farm.
The young Southerner knew farming and he went right out the first day and secured a place on a farm. To make a long story short he is now known as "the Ross township cattle baron," and his fame spreads all over Ohio.

After a few years of farm labor he used his savings and bought a small farm. He worked night and day and soon had the place paid for.

Unlike some farmers he believed in every improvement, in every labor saving device, that came out. He went in for "finishing" feeding cattle for the foreign market. Before the world war the big buyers came direct to Cummings' farm when they wanted the extra beef. They had to pay for it, for Cummings knows the worth of live stock about as well as any living man. Now he has an immense farm in rich Ross township, Greene county, said to be the finest farm land in all Ohio. His sons have large farms, too, and they know what to do with the land.

Friend of Soldier
But the remarkable part of Cummings' story is that he is a staunch friend of the old soldier. It doesn't matter to him whether the soldier wears the blue or the gray.

The ex-Confederate attends every state G. A. R. encampment and every national affair. He has hosts of friends among the "boys" that he tried hard to kill years ago.

Nothing suits him better than to sit down and talk to any Northern soldier. And he can talk—because few soldiers are to be found who didn't take part in some battle in which Cummings was a part and parcel of the Southern army.

And the state records at Richmond, Va., show that the tall, white-haired man, with the southern drawl, performed several feats of bravery that in modern times would give him a distinguished Service Cross or a Croix de Guerre.

On Memorial Day.
Each Memorial Day Cummings marches with the Northern soldiers to the little cemetery and helps to decorate the graves of his old enemies. Enemies he has no longer for he loves the Northern soldier as he does his own. No soldier ever went to him for relief and came away empty handed.

He is an unusual character, this Cummings. You won't find one like him in all Ohio. And perhaps of all the Grand Army men in attendance at the big encampment you will find but few who don't know Cummings—and love him. They all do.

All His Brothers
He was a Confederate soldier—but all that is past and gone. He thought he was in the right and fought with the last ounce of energy to help the mistaken South to win. But once it was all over, Cummings accepted all Northerners as his brothers.

A marked success in life in a business way. Cummings has found the secret of living as well. Hunt him up in Lima today and you'll find he has a big band of friends about him. They will be fighting the old battles, and Cummings will be alone in showing how the "Rebs" did this and that. But there won't be any "fusses" about this and that. For, after all, they're just brothers, talking about their boyhood days.

AN APT COMPARISON.
Mr. I. M. III—Doc, you remind me of a bird.

Doc—How so?

Because you're forever sticking your bill in my face.

Miracle of the Frost.
What a purifier of things in general is the miracle of the frost! How keen and fresh is the air! There is an exhilaration in it that none of the disadvantages can possibly take away. And the purity of the air is of such a nature as to kill the various foul microbes that infest the human system, and would work our ruin. All are now coming to know how beneficial to those suffering from tuberculosis is such air as this, so frost has its ministers of blessing as well as of injury. It is one of those cases where just enough is good and too much is very bad.

Few Now Search for Gold.
With the exception of the years of 1915 and 1916, when discoveries of tungsten brought a horde of wealth seekers to the Colorado hills, the search for gold has steadily diminished since the gold rush 25 years ago. At that time, old mining men say, the mountains were full of prospectors searching for new veins and placer deposits. The new generation has not followed in the footsteps of the old and one of the picturesque features of Western life is becoming extinct.

STORY IN OUTLOOK WILL BE OF MUCH INTEREST TO XENIANS

In "The Outlook" of May 28, 1919, is an article entitled, "Sister Ohio, a Memory of the Civil War" written by Lucy Seaman Bainbridge. The article sets forth in a very interesting way some of the striking experiences of a relief party hastily sent out to the front from Southern Ohio, in the spring of 1864, to do what they could for "these brave boys of ours who are sick, wounded and suffering, helpless and dying." One of the volunteers was the present Mrs. Bainbridge, at that time but a young girl just out of school. The head of the expedition—and this will interest many Gazette readers—was "the Rev. Mr. Prugh of Ohio, a clergyman of good standing."

As the narrative was read to him, the venerable Doctor Prugh recalled incidents, one after another, it brings to mind. He particularly remembers well the "little girl" of the expedition who was under his special guardianship; and had been wondering time and again what became of her. It all resulted in opening up a correspondence and getting acquainted again. Following is quotation, in part, from letter of Mrs. Bainbridge, dated June 11:

"To say that I was delighted to receive your letter and the picture of your father, does not express my joy. I have been wondering many, many times, whether 'Father Prugh' was still in this land of the living—rather I should say this land of the dying. I am glad he remembers me. I have such a delightful remembrance of him and his kindness and care of me when I was a girl."

"You say you noticed the review and advertisement of my book in The Outlook. I am sure you would be interested in the story that I wrote of my experiences in lower New York. I am sending by mail a copy of the book as a gift to your father and to yourself. I hope he will be well enough, when it reaches you, to enjoy it."

The book mentioned has been gladly received. Its title is: "Helping the Helpless in Lower New York." On the fly leaf is written: with the author's own hand, this touching inscription:

To Rev. P. C. Prugh, D. D., with loving memory, from "Sister Ohio." L. S. B.

34 Gramercy Park, New York City.

MANY ARE PRESENT AT ELKS DANCE

Although the evening was particularly warm a large crowd of young people enjoyed the dance given at Kilkare Park Thursday evening, which was given as the first of a series of summer dancing parties, to be given by the Elks this summer. Mullen's orchestra, with four pieces, furnished excellent music, which was enhanced by singing by little Irvin Whittieridge. The committee in charge consisted of Jacob Kany, S. G. Phillips and Lester John.

"You boys have been using that same deck of cards for months."

"Yes," replied Three-Finger Sam. "It's for the perfection of home industry. We know all the bent corners an' finger marks by heart and any extra act that a tenderfoot tries to ring in is detected immediately."

Nothing Equal to Nerv-Worth in Hot Weather

It Gives Restful Sleep, Aids Digestion, Steadies the Nerves, Builds Up Strength.

A tonic that does this when mid-summer heat lays its heavy burdens upon humanity is worth ten times its cost. That Nerv-Worth lifts these burdens is proven by a mass of signed statements still on file.

If the reader is skeptical he can verify Nerv-Worth claims without running a cent of risk. The Nerv-Worth dealer will refund his dollar if the benefits promised do not follow a trial according to directions. This offer goes in every single Nerv-Worth advertisement. Could anything more fully prove the faith in Nerv-Worth which its makers possess?

Nerv-Worth is a family tonic which does good and good only. Composed of vegetable ingredients it confers rich benefits upon the system and leaves not a trace of harm behind. It is truly a family tonic, blessing equally the nervous child, the worn-out veteran and men and women of all ages.

C C C CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS (OHIO)

"Remember this great Centenary celebration closes its gates on Sunday, July 13th."

Described by William C. Freeman, Associated with Paul Block, Inc., New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston.

The people of Columbus are to be congratulated that among their number, there are so many wonderful young men and women who have given freely of their time and talents to making the GREAT PAGEANT shown in the Coliseum nightly a great success.

In my time I have seen a great many remarkable stage effect, but the magnificent colorings displayed during the Pageant show, and the natural acting of the participants, surpasses anything I have seen.

D. W. GRIFFITH, THAT GREAT MOTION PICTURE PRODUCER, shares this view with me, or rather, I share his view of it, because, unquestionably, he is a better judge than I, for he personally reviewed it.

Yet I like what I like and can see with two perfectly good eyes what I like.

I like this Great Pageant Show immensely, and so will you.

The people of Ohio, and of everywhere, for that matter, are to be congratulated that there are always talented and unselfish volunteers among their number WILLING TO DO ANYTHING OR EVERYTHING TO PUT A GREAT CAUSE OVER THE TOP.

The local talent of Columbus, the capital of Ohio IS GREAT. It has produced a magnificent Pageant.

You must see the costumes and the stage color effects, which cost many thousands of dollars.

These alone are worth traveling a thousand miles to see. You will see at this CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS, what has been accomplished by the splendid manhood and womanhood of America in educating and training the minds of peoples of other countries to whom have been denied the blessings we enjoy in such abundance.

You will see evidence of the development of character and industry—and what can be done when FAITH and HIGH RESOLVE get a foothold in the hearts and brains of human beings that were hopeless and helpless before they were touched by human kindness and sympathy, and assisted to self-respect.

WORK OF THIS KIND MADE THE CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS POSSIBLE. Personally I think it was an inspiration of God, carried out in magnificent detail by a group of men and women who are His devout followers.

Otherwise, I don't believe any group of human minds—brilliant though they may be in imagination and initiative—could have planned such a helpful, inspiring and thrilling exposition. I think it should be seen by every human being. Show by your presence that you are in accord with THE GREAT WORK being done by the splendid men and women who have staged this CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS.

When you see it, I hope you will, you will get its lesson deep into your mind and heart as I have.

The more I see of it, the more I want to see.

When you enter the State Fair Grounds, Columbus—one of the beauty spots in the great State of Ohio—you will be immediately impressed with the crowds and the music and the laughter, and the happiness of everybody. You will get all day long, and until late in the evening, a combination of heart throbs and joys such as you have never experienced before.

PEPSINCO

The best remedy for indigestion that ever came out of a drug store

You know that pepsin is good for indigestion but pepsin could never do what PEPSINCO will. We have dealt in medicines long enough to know the various uses and value. We unhesitatingly say that PEPSINCO is the best remedy for indigestion, gas, flatulency, food distress, sour stomach and pains under the ribs, that ever came out of a drug store. Sufferers of indigestion and dyspepsia will do well to take PEPSINCO.

Ask your druggist—he sells and recommends Pepsinco.

THOUSANDS SPEND FOURTH ALONG THE BANKS OF STREAMS

Pleasure hunters, those seeking surcease from work and evaders of hot weather, infested parks, river banks and various cool and secluded places around this city Friday.

Thousands of Xenians and others picnicked, bathed, boated and lounged in a fury of heat-avoiding. These thousands, however, were minus some one thousand fight fans who stayed in the hot city until after the returns from the Willard-Dempsey battle at Toledo had been conveyed to their ears, through the medium of the Gazette and the Republican.

The automobile parade was started here early in the morning and machines formed a constant ever-flowing stream along the highways and byways of the county until long after morning had again claimed the night. Auto picnic parties infested the roads like gypsies. Along river banks amateur fishers languidly tossed baited hooks into the water and dozed off under the somnambulatory influence of the hot sun.

At Kilcare park some several thousand people gathered to celebrate the day. There were people from all over this section of the state gathered at the popular park Friday and the place was crowded with automobiles and humans.

Boating and bathing proved popular diversions for the pleasure seekers. The water bank was rimmed with bathers in gay bathing suits and the cool water was flecked with heads plowing above the surface.

Row boats and canoes vied with each other and all craft on hand was in use all of the time. Boaters sought shady nooks along the upper river and around Wildcat islands and there spent the afternoon.

Despite the intense heat dancing proved a popular diversion and the floor was crowded for every dance from early in the afternoon until late at night. Mullen's orchestra from Dayton furnished the music which was very popular. The dance floor and the porch at the park were crowded all of the time.

The Tippecanoe City band furnished band concerts throughout the afternoon and evening at the park and in the evening fireworks were shot off from the opposite river bank. People in the park used the natural amphitheater provided by the rising banks from the river to witness the pyrotechnical display.

The D. & X. traction line ran double headers to Dayton all day besides a special car that ran to Kilcare every half hour, and the cars carried people to the Park from both ends of the line.

Automobiles were thick as at the Speedway races and were parked all over the huge enclosure. At one time in the evening the cars were jammed so thickly at the entrance gate awaiting a chance to get into the park, that it took from fifteen minutes to a half hour for some machines to pass the point.

At Bryan Park boating and bathing again featured and offered surcease to hot humanity. Dancing all day was enjoyed with the famous O'Neil's orchestra from Springfield furnishing the music. The park was crowded all day, there being many picnic parties from Springfield and other cities.

At Clifton auto parties picnicked all day long and the cliffs proved quite popular. The natural scenery of the place popularizes it as a picnic resort. Many other places of natural scenery did not escape the pleasure seekers who struck for the country by the hundred from this city.

Easy to Keep All
Teeth Pearly White

It will be found quite easy to keep the teeth white, shining and free from discoloration by brushing them once a week with a new and remarkable product originated by a well-known dentist. While it contains nothing which might injure the enamel or gums, it will surely remove even the most obstinate stains and deposits. The reason so many teeth are never thoroughly clean no matter how much they are brushed and scrubbed, is the presence of transparent films, or "plaques," so called which adhere to the tooth surface and which become discolored by dirt, decayed food, nicotine or other things. These films are really thin layers of fat-which accounts for that slippery feeling when touched with the tongue—and dentifrices do not penetrate them. They are completely and quickly removed by "Once-a-Week Tooth Polish," however, and the trouble will not reappear if this is used at regular intervals. It keeps teeth, gums and mouth in a hygienic condition and there is no surer preventive of stains, tartar, decay, soreness, or sponiness of gums. Any druggist can supply it.

The Way Your Tax Money is Spent

The following condensed information has been compiled for the citizen of Xenia, so that he may know what becomes of the money he pays in general taxes. For example, in 1918, he paid $15.30 on each $1000 property valuation. Note the following deduction:

Total$15.30
State45

Leaving$14.85
County435

Leaving$10.50
Township30

Leaving$10.20
Xenia City Schools450

Leaving$ 5.70
Interest and Sinking Fund for City310

Leaving$ 2.60

Total amount available from taxes for the city's direct operating expenses.

This $2.60 that the city commissioners receive from the $15.30 that you pay on each $1000 property valuation is every cent of money that they have from tax revenue and is all of such monies that are available for all the direct operating expenses of the city. To this amount there is added from all sources of miscellaneous revenue the income from license fees, rentals, interest, police court fines, and in the past the liquor tax. The miscellaneous income was about $10,000 in 1918 and now that the saloons are out it will only amount to less than $4000.00.

The $2.60 all that you pay into the city for its direct operating expenses plus the $4000.00 that is now received from miscellaneous revenue will raise $32,000.00. This is every cent that the city administration has with which to do the following work:

ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS.

Salaries and office expenses of employees$ 8364.00
Elections, legal advertising, judicial, interest, etc.1200.00
$ 9564.00

SAFETY—FIRE AND POLICE DEPARTMENTS

Engineering$ 200.00
Street repairing and maintenance2500.00
Street cleaning (city's share)1000.00
Water for fire protection, sewers, fountains, etc15000.00
Sewers, drains, ditches and sewage disposal2000.00
Bridges and viaduct1000.00
Public lands and buildings2200.00
$23900.00

Grand Total$49414.00

It is impossible to meet expenses which aggregate $49,414.00 with only $32,000.00. The administration is therefore compelled to cut down the budget by doing only such work as is absolutely necessary to avoid serious damage to life and property and to only pay $6,400.00 (the old rate) instead of $15,000.00 the public service charge for water, as fixed by the State Public Utilities Commission.

The only solution, now that the state has refused financial relief and no city made a more earnest effort to get proper relief than Xenia did during the recent session of the legislature, is to purchase the water works, thereby saving the $9,000.00 we now fail to pay, and to put into effect an occupational tax to provide for revenue lost by the passing out of saloons.

When you feel that the city is not properly protecting your interests please think of the meager $2.60 that the city gets from each $1000 worth of property you are assessed for and recall all that the city furnishes you for that $2.60. You get police and fire protection; the enforcement of sanitary and health provisions; the operation of an excellent sewer system and sewage disposal plant; care and maintenance of streets, alleys, the viaduct and all small bridges, public lands and buildings; garbage disposal; city's share of street cleaning; the benefits of a large and ample storm sewer and drainage system; and the administration of the public business. Figure the number of thousands of dollars worth of property you have and multiply by $2.60 for each one thousand and determine what the above services costs you per year. To the majority it is not as much as is the cost of the least of any of the items of ones living expenses.

PER YEAR
Tobacco Bill$36.40
Candy15.00
Soft Drinks15.00
Picture Shows20.00
Oranges for Breakfast36.40
Telephone18.00
Magazines12.00
Cosmetics10.00

To the average family of Xenia the total cost of the city government, for direct operations, is not over $5.20 per year. Think of it! Your total tax of $15.30 for State, Township, County, City Schools and City is not more than the cost of the least of your other living expenses.

TWENTY NINE SUITS FOR DIVORCE PENDING IN THE LOCAL COURT

There were 29 suits for divorce pending in the Greene county common pleas court on July 1, 1919. During the year which ended June 30, 1919, 87 actions for legal separations were brought. Within the year, 86 of the total of 116 cases were disposed of, leaving 30 pending, at the opening of this month.

These statistics are shown by the annual report of Clerk of the Courts George W. Sheets, which has been completed for the year ending June 30, and sent the secretary of state.

Absence and neglect are the chief grounds upon which husbands and wives ask the courts to grant them legal separation. Drunkenness is offered as a grounds for divorce less often than any other cause. Fifty-four of the cases brought during the twelve month period just ended named absence and neglect; five adultery and three drunkenness.

Seventy-five wives were the plaintiff in the 116 suits, and the remaining 41 were brought by husbands. Twenty-two cases brought by husbands were granted, one decree refused and nine cases dismissed. Wives were granted 19 decrees, one was refused a divorce, and 14 cases brought by wives were dismissed. In five cases custody of children was awarded to the father, while in twelve cases in which children were concerned, the mother was awarded their care.

MORE RECRUITING OFFICERS MAKE THEIR APPEARANCE IN XENIA

Following closely on the heels of Lieutenant Miller and his recruiting men, Lieutenant Barker of the Cincinnati office of the Recruiting Service and five men arrived in this city have and are conducting a canvass for recruits.

Lieutenant Miller and his men left here Tuesday night. Increased business and the fact that most of the men of eligible age have seen service, is making recruiting hard and as yet no local men have signed up for an enlistment.

The members of Lieutenant Barker's recruiting party said Thursday morning that they found Xenia the most sociable and hospitable city they had struck since leaving Chicago. They said they liked Xenia and would like to stay here if their duty did not call on them to leave Saturday morning.

The men are from the 40th Reg. Infantry at Camp Sherman and will return there after their recruiting trip. They are here ready and anxious to give any information to prospective recruits and men thinking of enlisting in the army will learn of the advantages of this branch of the service through them any time.

Molly: "Were you much upset by the bank failure?" Cholly: "Yes, I lost my balance."

Visitor (hungry): "And at what time do you have dinner, my little friend?" Terrible boy: "Soon as you've gone."

"What did George Washington do for his country?" asked the teacher. "He gave it an extra holiday," proudly answered a boy at the foot of the class.

"Books are wanted for the soldiers, Tommy." "I got a nice arithmetic they kin have."

"Bill," said the poet, as he entered his friend's room, "a comma is a horrible thing." "Wrong! I wrote a poem about my little boy, and began the first verse with these words: 'My son! My pigmy counterpart.'"

We learn from an exchange that an Englishman and a Scotchman, who traveled in Egypt together paid a visit to the Pyramids. The Englishman was lost in admiration and asked his companion for his opinion. The Scotchman shook his head sorrowfully. "Ach, mon," he said with a sigh, "what a lot o' fason work no' to be bringin' ony rent!"

A young lady entered a fur shop, and a polite salesman came forward. "I wish to get a muff," she said. "Yes'm," said the salesman; "what fur?" The young lady looked surprised. "Why," she said, "to keep my hands warm, of course."

A certain rich old man did not approve of foreign missions. One Sabbath at church, when the offering was being taken up, the collector approached the millionaire and held out the bag. The millionaire shook his head. "I never give to missions," he whispered. "Then take something out of the bag, sir," whispered the collector, "the money is for the heathen."

"SAFE AND SANE" FOURTH IN OHIO COSTS 7 LIVES

Cleveland, O., July 5.—Ohio's "safe and sane" Independence day celebration cost seven lives and the injury of 28 persons. Two more were killed close to the Ohio line in Pennsylvania.

An auto accident at Mansfield where a Pennsylvania train struck a machine load of happy picnickers resulted in the death of five and the injury of three.

At Youngstown, the explosion of an illuminated bomb resulted in the death of H. W. Strawsbaugh. Four persons were injured in fireworks accidents.

Collision of two automobiles on the Cleveland-Sandusky road near Huron caused severe injury of ten persons.

At Mansfield aviator Roy Gardner and his mechanic Ernest Price were painfully hurt when their machine fell 150 feet.

Fire chief F. F. Kunkle was badly burned at Port Clinton, while fighting a fire caused by an exploding firecracker.

Raymond Metcalf met death by drowning in Turkey foot Lake near Akron and two persons were seriously hurt in an auto accident at Akron.

Near Fremont five men enroute to the fight at Toledo were injured when their machine went into a ditch. They were able to continue after their injuries were dressed. Eleven year old Ralph Williams was run down by an automobile at Warren and badly injured.

Two were killed near the Ohio state line and four badly injured last night when an automobile jumped a sixty-foot embankment near Frankfort Springs, Pa. The occupants were pinned under the car.

HANDLEY-PAGE FORCED TO LAND

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, L. I., July 5.—The giant Handley-Page bombing plane, which left St. John's, N. F., late yesterday was forced to land at 5:30 o'clock this morning according to word reaching officials here early today. Officials were unable to learn where the landing was made.

The Handley-Page machine had intended to land at Roosevelt field and be on hand to welcome the R-34 when it arrived.

JAMESTOWN GLORIOUSLY CELEBRATES

Jamestown gloriously celebrated the glorious Fourth Friday and hundreds of people crowded the city all day for the big events planned as a homecoming for the soldiers.

The program was started in the morning when Lieut. Coons, from Camp Sherman, delivered an address at the Fairgrounds. Two good horse racing events also featured the program at the Fairgrounds.

Fifty returned soldiers from Jamestown, in uniform, proved an attraction at the fairgrounds, when they presented bayonet drill and afterwards showed skirmish formation and the method of "going over the top." They used army rifles and gave the crowds on hand a realistic idea of how the big work overseas was carried on.

Seventy returned soldiers in uniform were the guests of the Red Cross Committee at a four course banquet given at the Wickersham Hotel at six o'clock Friday evening. The affair was one of the most auspicious of the day and was a splendid welcoming banquet for the returned soldiers.

Rev. Mooreman gave the benediction and Dr. F. W. Ogan gave the address of welcome to the returning soldiers. The program was also interspersed with music.

Following the soldier banquet an immense fireworks display was given, the showing rivaling anything in the way of pyrotechnic displays ever shown in this county.

Ex-soldiers turned out a plenty for the home coming celebration, which coming as it did, on a soldier day, the Fourth of July, was happily arranged for and was a most enjoyable occasion. The streets were crowded all day Friday.

PRESIDENT DECIDES TO VISIT NEW YORK

Enroute to the United States with President Wilson, on board the U. S. S. George Washington, July 5.—(By wireless to New York.)—A revision was made in President Wilson's plans today which will enable him to pay a brief visit to New York City when he lands at Hoboken next Tuesday. The president expects to go ashore shortly after noon and will proceed to Carnegie Hall in New York City where he will be formally welcomed by Gov. Smith of New York state. After a brief response Mr. Wilson will go to the Pennsylvania station and board a train for Washington.

The George Washington will be greeted outside of Ambrose channel by the Atlantic fleet.

Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and other officials will go down to New York bay on the battleship Pennsylvania and be transferred to the George Washington before she docks. The secretaries are expected to accompany the president from Hoboken to New York City by automobile.

OLDEST PART OF TOWER OF LONDON READY FOR KAISER

London, July 5.—White Tower, the oldest part of the Tower of London, built by William the Conqueror is being prepared for the ex-kaizer when he is placed on trial before an international court in London, the Daily Express stated today. Suitable furniture is being installed and rooms are being made ready to house attendants.

No difficulty will be raised by the Dutch government in delivering the former German emperor the Daily Express understands. It is understood he will be sent to the mouth of the Thames aboard a Dutch warship and there turned over to the British authorities.

It has been decided, the Daily Express says, not to ask for the death penalty on account of opposition, some of which came from the United States.

SCORES ARRESTED FOR RIOTING IN CITY OF FLORENCE

Rome, July 5.—Scores of persons were arrested at Florence today as a result of the rioting and looting which held the city in a grip of terror on Thursday and Friday. Several persons were injured in clashes between mobs and the police. The authorities had a difficult time suppressing the pillaging.

Thetrouble arose over the high cost of available foodstuffs.

MRS. JAS. McCAFFERY DIES FRIDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Catherine McCaffery, wife of James McCaffery, died at her home in Spring Valley at 8 o'clock Friday night, after one month's illness of heart trouble and complications.

Mrs. McCaffery was a native of County Cavan, Ireland, coming to this country when she was a young girl. She passed the seventy-fourth anniversary of her birth last March 25. For the last 29 years her home had been in Spring Valley, the family moving to this county from South Charleston. Mr. McCaffery was for years a foreman on the Cincinnati division of the Pan Handle railroad, and well known in this city. He is now retired.

With her husband, the following children survive Mrs. McCaffery: Mrs. William Plunkett, Mrs. Robert Glynn, James McCaffery, all of Dayton; and Lawrence McCaffery of Oregon. She leaves two brothers, Matthew and Anthony Tierney of South Charleston, nine grandchildren and one great grandchild, the child of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Adsit of Dayton.

The body will be removed at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon to the home of Mrs. Robert Glynn, 354 Creighton avenue, Dayton. Funeral services will be held at the home at 8 o'clock Monday and at 8:30 at Sacred Heart church. Interment in Calvary cemetery.

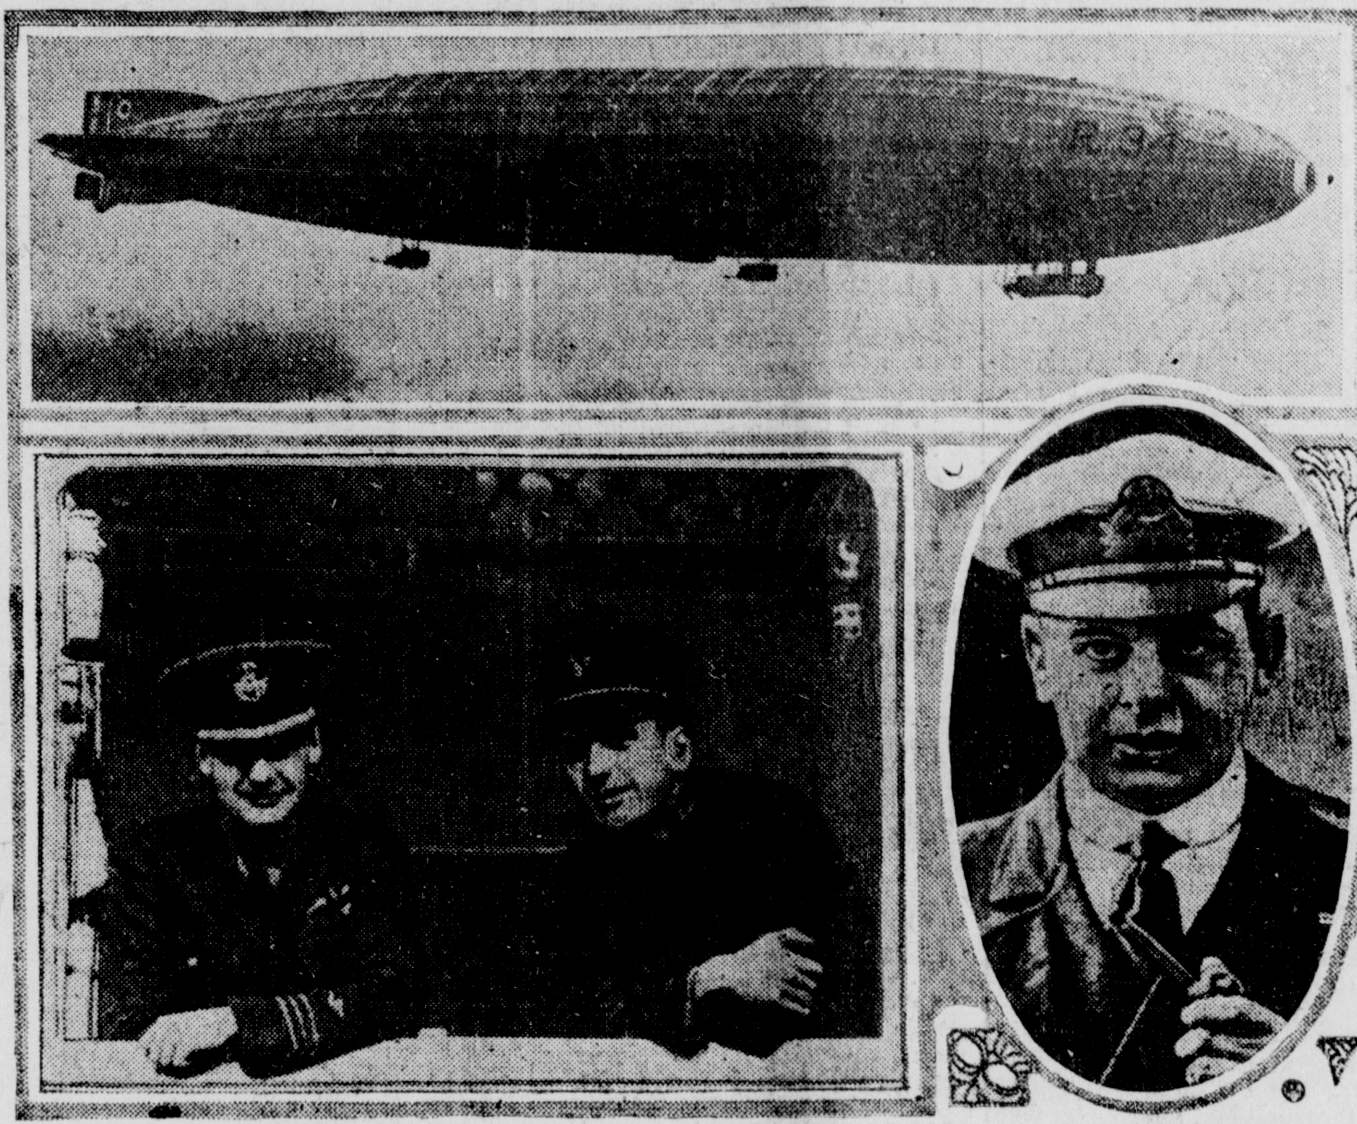

FARMER FALLS DEAD IN THE WHEAT FIELD

Absalom Chenoweth, father of Roy Chenoweth of East Third street this city, fell dead in a harvest field at the home of a neighbor near Waynesville, while assisting in gathering the wheat crop, Friday. He was found dead by other men in the field.

Mr. Chenoweth had been suffering from heart trouble and complications for some time, but he insisted upon going into the wheat field yesterday to help his neighbor. The extreme heat is supposed to have caused heart failure.

Mr. Chenoweth is survived by his widow and three sons; Roy of this city; John of Detroit and Howard at Home. Roy Chenoweth went to Waynesville upon receiving news of his father's death.

BIG BRITISH DIRIGIBLE FLYING TO UNITED STATES.

R-34 and officers

The big British dirigible R-34 which is flying to the United States at the rate of forty miles an hour, and her officers, Major G. H. Scott, Royal Air Force, commander of the R-34 (right insert); Major Pritchard, Royal Air Force, and Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, U. S. N. (left insert). The officers are shown looking out of a window of the R-34's car. The R-34 is of the latest type of rigid dirigible lighter than air craft, stayed internally by a substantial framework whose buoyancy is derived from balloons inflated with hydrogen placed inside the outer envelope. She has been compared with the steamship Adriatic and is closely like that great vessel in length. From nose to tail she measure 639 feet. Her greatest diameter is 79 feet, and from the bottom of her amidships gondola to the highest point of the ship is a reach of 92 feet. Her total weight is thirty tons and she can carry a useful load of 21.21 tons.

MRS. MARY VANHORN DIES FRIDAY NIGHT AT HOME OF HER SON

Mrs. Mary VanHorn widow of Sylvester VanHorn, died at 8:57 o'clock Friday night at the home of her son, and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carl VanHorn, 630 South Detroit street. She had been ill for three months, of a complication of troubles.

Mrs. VanHorn was born March 24, 1845, near Augusta, Ill. Her maiden name was Mary Griffiths. She lived in Illinois and Iowa until after her marriage, and about 40 years ago came to Xenia with her husband. They continued to live here and reared their family in Xenia. Mr. VanHorn died 20 years ago.

The death of Mrs. VanHorn is the fourth which has occurred in the family connection within a year. Her son, Amos VanHorn of St. Louis, died last April 10, being suddenly stricken while preparing to start for this city to see his mother. Two grandsons of Mrs. VanHorn, Glenn, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl VanHorn, and John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos VanHorn also died, the latter a sailor, going to his death, when the Ticouderoga was sunk by a German submarine.

Mrs. VanHorn was a member of the First Baptist church throughout her residence in Xenia. She was converted in Davis county, Iowa, in 1870, and became affiliated with the Christian church at that time. She remained a member of the Christian church until after coming to this city to live.

Four children survive her, William D., of Columbus; Walter of Cincinnati; Carl of this city, and Mrs. David Henshaw of Dayton.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Carl VanHorn, Monday at 3 o'clock. Friends may call from 3 until 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

C. L. DARLINGTON RETURNING TO U.S.

Captain Charles L. Darlington is a passenger on the steamer Leviathan, which is due to arrive in New York Sunday. A wireless message bearing the information that he was aboard the big ship on his way home, was received from him Friday by Mrs. Darlington, who is ill in Cincinnati. His mother, Mrs. Charles Darlington, Sr., of this city, made plans at once to go to New York to meet her son, and left Xenia at 7 o'clock Friday night. Captain Darlington has been in France and Germany about a year and a half. He was located at Camp Grant, Ill., before sailing. He is one of Xenia's most popular soldiers, and his friends here are eager to welcome him back home.

NOT SENATOR'S SON
Los Angeles, Cal., July 5.—Harry S. New, Jr., self confessed slayer of his sweetheart, Miss Freida B. Lesser, is not the son of United States Senator New, of Indiana, despite his claims, according to telegrams received in Los Angeles today.

AGED WARRIOR ALIVE

Junction City, Kan., July 5.—John Allen, sixty-four, who two years ago made a trip in a box car from this city to New York to enlist in the army, is not dead as reported. He expects to return to this city as soon as he is mustered out of the service.

Allen wrote to friends here, from London, where he is staying at the home of a brother, whom he had not seen for forty years, that he was alive.

RICHARD LEWIS DIES AT INDUSTRIAL HOME

Richard Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, of the Trebein road, four miles west of Xenia, died at the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. Death was due to typhoid fever from which he had been suffering for three weeks.

Richard was 16 years of age at the time of his death. The body will arrive in this city Saturday evening. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

JOHN BUSHNELL WILL STAND TRIAL ON SPEEDING CHARGE

John Bushnell, wealthy Springfield citizen, was in police court Saturday morning for the hearing of the case in which he is defendant charged with speeding. He pleaded not guilty and the trial was set for Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Bushnell was arrested Wednesday by Speed Officer Clark Stethem when he was driving at an excessive rate of speed. He claims that he was only going 23 miles an hour which is faster than the law permits even under the new law which becomes effective Sunday. He also alleges that Officer Stethem used a revolver in forcing him to stop after he had started again when being told of the offense by the officer.

Attorney Marcus Shoup of this city is representing Mr. Bushnell in conjunction with a Springfield attorney.

NO INJURIES ARE REPORTED IN XENIA ON FOURTH OF JULY

If results here can be taken as a criterion of the country at large, the number of accidents and deaths from fireworks this year will be reduced to a minimum.

The amount of noise would not compare with former years and it seemed as if there were more fire crackers shot off before the Fourth than on the big day itself. There were no reports of serious burns or injuries due to the fireworks, which in itself is an odd fact.

The heat and the popularity of the parks contributed to make Xenia comparatively quiet Friday.

FOUR YOUNG XENIA PEOPLE IN ACCIDENT BUT THEY ARE UNHURT

Misses Mary Mannington and Doris Whittington and Walker Whittington and Richard O. Fay miraculously escaped uninjured when the special built speedster owned and driven by Mr. Fay ran off the road and turned over, throwing out the occupants.

The accident happened when the steering gear broke and the driver lost control of the machine. The party was returning from London, where they had spent the day at the Fourth of July celebration and the dance there Friday night and were returning home, coming by way of Springfield.

Near Old Town the steering gear became crippled and the machine crashed off the road and turned over. Not a one of the occupants was injured although the machine was badly damaged. The passengers were brought to Xenia by a passing auto.

ELEVENTH HOUR EFFORT BEING MADE TO BLOCK STRIKE

Cleveland, July 5.—In an eleventh hour attempt to prevent the street car strike scheduled in Cleveland for 4 a. m. Sunday, city council met today. Difficulty was experienced in securing a quorum as many members of that body were away for the week end.

Mayor Harry L. Davis attended the meeting and it was confidently expected that should council be unable to force an amicable settlement between the company and its employees, that he will take a hand.

Meanwhile both company and men were standing firm.

The company through its officials maintained that in as much as council refused an additional operating appropriation and insisted upon a reduction in rates, they are unable to consider the men's demands.

The men, who have voted practically unanimously for a strike, refuse to consider any settlement other than the granting of their demands for a 12-cent an hour increase in wages.

It was considered possible that council may give the company unequivocal assurance that sufficient operation allowance will be made for any wage increase they incur and thus avert the strike. However, the company is also insisting that they be allowed a one per cent dividend increase.

ACCEPTS RESPONSIBILITY.

Copenhagen, July 5.—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, former chief of staff of the German army, who has just retired to private life at Hanover, has telegraphed to President Ebert accepting responsibility for all acts and decisions of German army headquarters subsequent to August, 1916.

BRITISH DIRIGIBLE CALLS FOR HELP WHEN IN SIGHT OF AMERICA

Roosevelt Field, Mineola, L. I., July 5.—With in sight of American mainland and with victory almost won, the giant British dirigible, the R-34, is reported this afternoon to be stalled between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, over the Bay of Fundy. She was on the last lap of her history making trans-Atlantic flight and within a few more hours would have made Mineola where thousands of persons were waiting to receive her.

First reports that the dirigible was in trouble came to officials here through American naval wireless stations far up on the north Atlantic coast.

The naval wireless station at Ottercliff picked up this message from the ship:

"Could destroyer proceed to south end of Bay of Fundy to take his majesty's airship R-34 in tow?"

The naval wireless station here picked up another message from the R-34 as follows:

"Flying over Nova Scotia. Strong headwinds. Petrol running short."

Last direct word from the dirigible stated that she was off Sydney, N. S., at 8:45 o'clock last night and naval airmen figured today that, allowing an average speed, the big balloon could make the field by noon.

Thousands of persons gathered at the field and in the surrounding small villages were watching at dawn this morning for the first sight of the balloon. It is estimated that 200,000 persons will see the history-making machine anchor to her moorings here.

Radio men sat at their instruments here all last night, straining their ears for the first message from the R-34, but at 8 o'clock this morning there was still no word other than that reporting her position last night.

While the experts here were slightly worried at the continued silence of the dirigible's wireless, they have no doubt that everything is going well with the ship. They believe that after striking the Canadian mainland the R-34 probably turned straight down the coast. It was also considered possible that "something may have gone wrong with her wireless, but if that be true, there would still be no cause for alarm as the weather is well-nigh perfect.

Mineola and the surrounding country looked like a circus day in the pale morning light. Automobile parties having come from miles around to see the ship land. All the hotels of Mineola, Westbury and other small towns are filled to overflowing.

A noticeable gathering of American army men are here to greet the British rev. General Charles P. Menoher, chief of the army air service, arrived from Washington early today, heading the army contingent. Rear Admiral James H. Glenn, commandant of the Third naval district, represented the navy. It was reported about the field that Secretary Baker and Secretary Daniels would be on hand to welcome the fliers, but they were not present this forenoon.

Radio stations far up on the coast reported today that they had caught faintly the R-34's wireless signals. The reports, however, did not state her position.

Lieut. Colonel Frederick Y. Lucas of the British royal force, was anxiously awaiting an answer to his message sent by wireless to Major G. H. Scott, commanding the R-34, but no answer had been received up to 8:30 a. m. He had asked Major Scott for his position and probable time of arrival.

XENIA RESERVES TO MEET RESERVES OF INDIANAPOLIS

Bill Foley's henchmen are looking forward to a real diamond battle when the Xenia Reserves clash with their Indianapolis namesakes in the biggest game yet staged at the Cincinnati avenue park, Sunday.

Anticipating a close controversy, Manager Foley has strengthened his team against coming of Hoosiers by acquiring one of the most formidable ball clubs that has yet represented this burg of peace and plenty on the skinned sand lot. With a two weeks' rest occasioned by the failure of the Dayton Old Superbas to show up for the scheduled conflict of last Sunday, the Reserves are on their toes for the fracas Sunday and are confident of giving the visitors a tussle for the honors.

Barnard and smiling Bill Kuntz will both be on hand to work on the slab, and it is not yet decided which one of the moundsmen will be thrust in the breach. It is practically decided that "Dokey" Randall, who has been hitting at a great clip this season, will nose behind the strikers and the infield will likely be the same as it has been, with "Deacon" Bath on the initial station, Stiles holding down the keystone sack, Leahey in the short field, and Weaver at the difficult corner.

There will likely be a shifted lineup in the gardens, but Manager Foley is not taking any chances in this department of the club and some high class fly chasers will be dominating the outfield when the arbitrator gives the word.

With everybody on their cleats, it looks as if the inter-state clash is going to be the biggest base ball event that has yet written itself on the pages of the local history of the national pastime.

Fans are enthusiastic over the coming of the Indianapolis team, and it is expected that the stands will be packed for the performance.

Play will be called at three o'clock.

OLD SOL COOKS JULY FOURTH CROWDS TO CRISP FRIZZLE

Holiday pleasure seekers sweltered under the hottest sun of the summer Friday.

Fourth of July lived up to its reputation for a high temperature by shooting the mercury up to 98 degrees above nothing in the shade. The sun was boiling hot and there was no breeze.

Heat did not affect the size of crowds of people seeking succor from work and worry, who sought out pleasure resorts by the thousands despite the hot weather.

The day was easily the hottest of the season here. No heat prostrations were reported however.

After spending ten days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Van Eaton, has gone to New York, from which port she expects to sail July 8, for Russia. She will be engaged in Y. W. C. A. work. Miss Van Eaton has been in government survey work in the east for the last two years.

Miss Elizabeth Armitage, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Fulkerson of North King street, has gone to Pennville, Ind., to spend a month with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coyle of West Carrollton, are guests of Mr. Coyle's sister, Mrs. James Harner of the Lower Bellbrook pike.

It can't be a vacation without the Gazette—let it follow you.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Smith and family of Detroit motored to Xenia and are guests of Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith of Center street.

After spending fourteen months in the service of the government as a chemist in the Chemical Warfare Department, Dr. Austin M. Patterson has been given his discharge and will arrive home today.

Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Biddlecum went to New Castle, Indiana, Saturday morning, where Mr. Biddlecum will preach in the Friends church on Sabbath morning.

Miss Frances Ensinger of Cincinnati and Charles Moser of Middletown are visiting in Xenia the guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Clemon.

GET IT AT DONGES.

Rev. John A. White, of East Third street, will preach at the Friends church on Sabbath morning. Rev. White is a good speaker, and you are urged to be present.

Miss Lounetta Sterrett left Friday morning for the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, where she will enter upon post graduate work leading to her M. A. degree. Miss Sterrett was granted a life certificate to teach in the high schools of Pennsylvania in September 1918.

Mrs. D. D. Dodds and her two children, Misses Matilda Bailey, Ruth Charters, Pauline Sutton and Florence Chew, are home after having spent a week at the Stewart bungalow.

James Cowden who is employed in the Buick automobile factory in Flint, Mich., will return to Flint Sunday after spending a week's vacation in this city.

Richard Gowdy, who is employed in an Akron rubber factory is spending the week-end at his home here.

Fred Anderson, who is employed by the Lansing Company, at Lansing, Mich., is spending the week-end at his home in this city.

The Ladies Aid Society of White Chapel will give a lawn fete at the home of Mr. Daniel Turner, Thursday evening, July 10th. Everyone cordially invited. 7-5&8

There will be no choir practice in the First United Presbyterian church this evening.

Mrs. N. Z. Womble, of Fayetteville, N. C., spent last week with Mr. M. D. Flack, of Wilberforce. They are double cousins and although they had frequently corresponded with each other, had never seen each other before. Mrs. Womble is on a return trip home from New Castle, Pa., where she has been spending a month with her two sisters.

Michelin Tubes being made full-sized fill the inside of the casing even before inflation.

Other tubes, being smaller in diameter than Michelines, must be stretched by inflation to fill the casing. The flexing of these stretched tubes under constant tension when inflated causes destructive heating which kills all the natural life and resiliency of the rubber, making it porous and less resistant to cuts and punctures.

Michelin Tubes, being full-sized, are free from these disadvantages. Insist on Michelines—the full-sized inner tubes.

GOOD LUMBER

It always pays to take your plans and specifications up with a reputable lumber dealer before you make important decisions. It saves you money. It often saves life-long regret.

INVENTIVE genius as yet has devised nothing better for the blacksmith than the common anvil. Likewise no development in the building material industry has brought to light a material better than GOOD LUMBER.

OUT in Dedham, Massachusetts, there stands today a house which was erected in 1636. It is now 281 years old. IT IS BUILT OF LUMBER and it is a comfortable home today. Some people decry wood as a building material, saying that such is not as durable and as dependable as other kinds. But this old dwelling at Dedham seems to refute all criticism, standing against the storm of the elements intact for nearly 300 years.

THERE are many secrets about correct building. Important among them is the art of choosing the right kind of wood for each special purpose to which it is to be applied. Inexperience often costs the builder money. Maple, for instance is more expensive than pine, yet maple, while best for the floor, is wholly unserviceable when exposed.

ALL of which establishes two important points in building. The first is that lumber, being light, dry, adaptable to every purpose, and well within the reach of every purse IS THE CORRECT MATERIAL. The second is that it always pays to consult a reputable lumber dealer with regard to your building plans before making important decisions. Regrets are without avail after the house is finished. The time to take precautions is before the first nail is driven.

We handle good lumber. Manufactured for us at our own mills; cut from an all but inexhaustible supply of raw material; the product of the most modern machinery it comes direct to us standardized, guaranteed as to quality, free from the possibility of waste as can easily accrue through improper sawing and unburdened by the tax of the middle man. Common business methods dictate that you consult us before you buy.

DEMPSEY DEFEATS WILLARD IN THREE ROUNDS

GIANT KANSAN SENT TO MAT REPEATEDLY BY MIGHTY DEMPSEY

Toledo, O., July 5.—By virtue of one of the speediest and most one-sided events, Jack Dempsey, who may now wish to be known by his full voting name of William Harrison Dempsey, yesterday became the world's champion heavyweight boxer.

To all intents and purposes he whipped the huge Jess Willard, favorite in the meager betting in one round. Dempsey thought the referee had announced him winner, and actually left the ring. But he was called back and the butchery continued for two rounds more, when Jess, sitting in his corner with a bewildered look on his swollen countenance, failed to respond to the gong for the fourth round.

"It was no use to continue," said the ex-champion. "My strength went out in the first round."

He sat there apparently the most surprised man in the United States at the moment. His right eye was closed and his right cheek swollen and blue with bruises. Blood covered his body and his arms hung so helplessly over the ropes that it seemed as if a child might give him further abuse without arousing his interest.

Dempsey was breathing hard when the fight ended, but it was from exertion and not from punishment. He escaped almost unhurt but as he had used his arms like trip hammers on the anatomy of his opponent for nine crowded minutes in a sun that sent the thermometer to 110 degrees, his heart was still pumping at high pressure and he appreciated the breathing spell.

In the first few seconds of the contest it looked as if the experts who had been assigned to keep detailed account of all blows struck might come measurably close to doing so, but it was only for a fraction of a moment. After that the experts did well to count Jack's blows let alone take note of how each was made. The challenger knocked the big fellow down five times in the first round and had him hanging helplessly on the ropes or draped over his own shoulders most of the time when he was not taking advantage of the count.

The crowd thought the fight was over in that round. Willard was down for the seventh time and the count was apparently about to end when the gong sounded. It was a modest gong which couldn't make itself heard before so many people, and even Dempsey didn't get it. He crawled through the ropes and was headed out onto the shoulders of screaming fans when the truth was broken to him and he was hauled back.

Such fighting as the Kansas ranch man produced was placed on exhibition at the onset. He had stood in his corner a picture of confidence. His smile seemed that of one who had a brief and not unpleasant task before him. He certainly was all set to go for just before time was called he was heard to remark, "Let's get this thing over."

He measured the attendance, which disappointed estimates by about 50 per cent, with an appraising eye.

Dempsey presented a contrast. None of the confidence of his training camp statements appeared in his bearing. The man across from him outweighed him forty pounds and looked as big and impenetrable as a metropolitan bank building. The mood of the challenger was plainly thoughtful, and more than one ring-side of gaze whispered, "He's liked right now."

Fans Want Fight Stopped.

When they were introduced, Jess sauntered over with the cordial manner of one desiring to reassure a youngster, and took his hands in the friendliest way Jack's handshake was friendly, too, just then, but it was the last token of friendship from those gloves. A minute or so later they were using Willard for a chopping block and some in the crowd were crying, "Stop it! Stop it! It's plain murder!"

Dempsey's first effective blows, and the ones which apparently settled Willard's fate, were a right over Jess' shoulder to the jaw, a left to the body and a right to the jaw. Jess staggered. His eye was closing and he reeled, and the challenger, with all the energy of his pulsing youth began hitting him at will.

The attendance was below expectations. Seats were built for eighty thousand, and the estimate was that not more than half of these were occupied. Speculators lost heavily. They resold their tickets at anything from $5 to $15 under gate prices. No betting was reported at the ringside, nor was there much elsewhere so far as could be ascertained.

STATEMENTS BY THE FIGHTERS

Dempsey says: "I told you I would knock him out in the first round, and to all intents and purposes that is what I did."

"He took lot of punishment in the next two rounds, but was so feeble that I hated to hit him."

"Willard is a game fellow," Dempsey declared. "I never handed out more punishment to anyone and have him come back for more, as Willard did today."

Willard says: "In the first round when Dempsey hit me with a left hook I tried hard to continue, but I was rapidly losing my strength. My eye was closed at the end of the third

JACK DEMPSEY, WORLD'S NEW HEAVY WEIGHT CHAMPION

Jack Dempsey clearly demonstrated on July 4th at Toledo that he is the fightest scrapper who ever stepped into a squared ring. He made good his promise to beat Willard and the gong was all that saved Willard from being beaten by the knockout route in the first round.

round and I realized that it would be useless for me to continue, as I could hardly see. It is hard to admit defeat, but Dempsey is the hardest puncher I ever faced."

"Dempsey is a remarkable hitter. It was the first time that I had been knocked off my feet. I have sent many 'birds' home in the same bruised condition that I am in now, and I know how they felt. I sincerely wish Dempsey all of the luck possible, and hope that he garners of the riches that go with the championship. I have had my fling at the title. I was champion for four years. And I want to assure you that they'll never have to give a benefit for me. I have invested the money I've made."

When the beaten champion motored to his home with Ray O. Archer, his business manager, his sparring partners, the porches adjoining the Willard house were alive with women dabbling their eyes with handkerchiefs.

"It seems as if there has been a death in the neighborhood," one of them said.

"Well, I tried it once too often," was the greeting Willard gave them.

The ex-champion had a Turkish towel draped over his head to obscure his bruised face. He does not expect to leave Toledo for three or four days.

Jack Kearns, the manager for the new champion, says: "Jack is a real champion. He knocked Willard out twice. They gave us the fight in the that round, then brought us back with the bell and Jack got him again in the third. Dempsey will be a popular champion."

JAMESTOWN

Lieutenant Carl Paullin, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., is home for a brief vacation, with his mother, Mrs. Theodore Paullin and family.

The families of S. A. Brown and Archie McFarland visited with Dayton relatives on Tuesday.

Mrs. G. R. Bargdill has gone to London, to visit with her sister, Mrs. Vinnie Phifer. Mrs. Bargdill will also attend the sessions of the Centenary at Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wathall are the guests of relatives this week at Lima.

Mrs. Nettie Myers, and daughter, Mrs. Ray Cushman, were Dayton and Xenia visitors the first of the week.

The aged Mrs. Edgington, who is now at the McClellan hospital at Xenia, for treatment having had a fall which injured her hip, is resting comfortably. Mrs. Edgington has reached the age of 87, so her recovery will be slow.

C. H. Benegar, manager of the opera house, expects soon to give two days of entertainment, "The Heart of Humanity," which will be one of the best summer attractions shown at the local play house.

Dr. and Mrs. Glen K. Dennis of Wilmington, spent the Fourth in Jamestown with the home folks.

Lieut. Keith Moore has returned from the Ellington Field, Texas, having received an indefinite discharge. He is a member of the reserve aviation corps.

A few ex-pupils of the O. S. and S. O. Home at Xenia of this community, attended the annual reunion this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Flax of Dayton have been visiting with relatives here.

Mr. C. H. Benegar deserves the thanks of every one for remodeling the floor of the opera house—removing the steps in the aisles, which have always been a menace, and which have caused people to fall, some of them being seriously injured. Yet this is only a drop in the bucket to what needs to be done. The interior and the condition of the rostrum is a disgrace to Jamestown, and is commented upon by strangers who come into the building.

Mr. John Paullin, who has been a representative of the Goodyear Rubber Company, at Akron, since coming home from overseas, was home for the Fourth with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Paullin. Mr. Paullin has been in Buffalo, N. Y., in the sales office of the company in that city.

On Monday evening, Miss Cleo Zeiner delightfully entertained a number of friends with a lawn party, at her beautiful home on West Main street. The lawn was decorated with Japanese lanterns, which made an attractive setting for the dancing on the spacious porch. Wild roses and hydrangeas prettily made up other decorations. Cooling refreshments were served on the lawn. Miss Zeiner entertained for Robert Harbourn, of Delaware, who is spending a few days in Jamestown.

Mr. Jack Hayes, who recently returned from overseas, came from his home at Harrisburg, Va., spending the Fourth with his many friends here.

MRS. WILLARD GLAD JESS CHAMP NO MORE

Toledo, July 5.—There is one woman in Toledo happy because Jess Willard is no longer world's heavyweight champion. She is the wife of the vanquished title holder, and mother of his five children. She left them at their home in Lawrence, Kas., came to Toledo unannounced and with Willard's attorney occupied a seat in the $50 section while her husband was being battered to defeat. No one in the huge crowd, except the champion himself, knew she was there. When the bruised and battered giant of the ring was brought to the home he had occupied in Toledo's exclusive residential district, Mrs. Willard was there, eager to care for his wounds. She put him on a davenport and sat at his side, applying soothing iced cloths to his closed eye.

Mrs. Willard left the sun-baked arena after the towel was cast into the ring at the start of the fourth round, while the beaten champion was taken to the Casino, his training camp for a month, where he was bathed and first aid given his injuries.

"I am sorry that Jess was beaten, but I can truthfully say I am happy that he's no longer champion," Mrs. Willard said.

SIX HUNDRED FANS GET FIGHT RETURNS AT GAZETTE OFFICE

Braving the heat which streamed down on the paved streets on Detroit street, six hundred fight fans gathered in front of the offices of the Gazette and the Republican to take advantage of the service offered by these papers on the big Toledo fight.

Owing to the size of the crowd, which would not enable the people in the rear to get close enough to see bulletins on the window, the announcements were made by use of megaphone from an upstairs window. As quickly as the returns were received they were announced to the crowd and during the period intervening the excitement was intense.

The size of the crowd went even beyond the expectations of everyone, considering the number of people who were out of the city at the parks and seeking other forms of amusement. However the fight fans would not be denied and they gathered early to get the information from the big fight.

While there were a number of Willard backers in this section, it is thought the majority of the betting was on Dempsey, and for this reason the result of the big battle was generally satisfactory to the crowd which awaited the results.

The news of the outcome was quickly spread as soon as the final returns were made, showing that Willard had tossed up the sponge, and people in the parks and outside of Xenia were quickly aware of the outcome.

The service supplied by the Gazette and Republican kept the office open on a legal holiday and cheated several of the newspaper men from a part of their holiday, but the general satisfaction obtained in supplying the information for such a large crowd, was well worth the sacrifice.

XENIANS WHO SEE WILLARD DEMPSEY FIGHT GIVE IMPRESSIONS OF BOUT

Many a man went to the Willard-Dempsey championship bout toting along a large enthusiasm for the pugilistic game and came away after the fight declaring that he didn't care if he ever saw another fight. Several Xenians were among the fans at the ring side and they all express themselves as disgusted with the boxing game as demonstrated by big Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey, the new champion. Instead of a high class boxing match which everyone had a right to expect to see the thousands of fans who circled the fighting ring were treated to a sickening, bloody, slugging match which was more disgusting than entertaining.

When Willard and Dempsey entered the ring the great crowd gasped at the magnificent physique of Willard and marveled at the wonderful physical development of Jack Dempsey. Truly two more splendid specimens of physical manhood never stepped into a squared ring since the history of pugilism began. Willard, who is a handsome man towered above everyone else in the ring and as he stood smiling down on friends he recognized at the ring side, he looked more like a business man who had put on fighting togs for a little friendly boxing match than a real fighter.

Dempsey was less at ease. He hung his head and kept shifting his feet about, being noticeably greatly excited and very nervous. And well he might be nervous, when he looked across the ring at his giant adversary who stood unconcerned chatting with his friends and apparently possessed of utmost confidence that Dempsey would be a toy in his massive hands.

As the fighters stood in the ring even the most ardent Dempsey fans were heard to express pity for Dempsey when they saw the giant Willard looming over him. Dempsey was an object of pity only for a few moments and after that Willard became the most pitiable object ever seen in a prize ring.

When Willard first entered the ring he showed that he was a good sport by the friendly manner in which he walked entirely across the ring to Dempsey's corner and shook hands with him with a broad and really friendly smile on his face.

When the gong sounded for the first round Willard stepped to the center of the ring with a pleasant but earnest expression on his face. Within a few moments that pleasant smile was wiped away and a big of utter bewilderment took its place.

Willard first with a couple of his famous left arm jabs but not enough to hurt him badly. Those were the only punches re-delivered while in "his right mind." Directly afterward Dempsey sent a sickening blow to the big man's stomach and like a flash followed it up with two wicked right hand blows to the champion's chin. It was then that the "human mountain" had his first experience of feeling his knees go out from him while his massive body crumpled to the mat. With the thoroughly aroused Dempsey hovering over him he gamely tried to rise only to be brutally beaten back to the mat. It was a terrible exhibition of a victor unmercifully beating a half dazed and weakened opponent. While many spectators yelled "Stop it!" "Stop it!" Dempsey continued to beat down his opponent flooring him seven times. When the gong finally rang, Willard was flat on the floor and was taking the long, long count. The gong saved him and his seconds gathered him up and assisted him to his corner, while the crowd went wild. Many believed the fight was over and started to leave the arena when the victorious Dempsey and the sadly weakened Willard were again called into the ring. The second round was tame, both men going into frequent clinches and doing each other very little damage. In the third Jess was still handling himself like a man in a stupor. His legs were wobbly and his face carried an expression of utter astonishment. His right eye was completely closed and the left one stared at Dempsey with the fixity of a man in a trance. Dempsey tore into his weakened adversary in this round and meted out terrible punishment to him. When the round ended Willard was ready to collapse and staggered to his corner where his head sank on his breast.

Some say Willard was not game, but Xenians who saw the fight say no man could have shown greater gameness. He took a beating that no other living man could have taken and lived and still fought on for two rounds when he was half stunned. He simply met a better man than himself and he took a worse beating in three rounds than Jim Jeffries took in fourteen rounds when he lost the championship belt. His seconds threw up the sponge for the simple reason that Willard was so weak he could not drag himself to his feet when the gong sounded for the fourth round. He did not quit. He was simply outclassed.

CLAIM THAT $2.26 WHEAT BRINGS PROSPERITY TO ONE CLASS AND HARD- SHIP TO EVERYBODY ELSE.

Harper's Magazine for July has an elaborate article on "Business Activities," as manifested in financial circles by J. G. Dater, which is attracting much attention. The industrial activity of the nation is attributed to the enormous wealth of the farming and working classes, creating a buying power larger than ever before. They have the money and have a mania for spending it, hence it is that though prices are very high, the shelves of retail stores are swept by the buyers. Some New York stores report a business two-thirds larger than a year ago, and the Chicago department stores report business 25 to 50 per cent above 1918.

That there is an immense amount of wealth in the country is indicated by the bank clearings for the year 1919, which were $7,729,912,000, as compared with those of the year 1912 which were $5,347,468,000. This speaks eloquently of the expanded volume of business, showing that the country is rich and is spending its money freely.

When you take into consideration the fact that prices are from 50 to 200 per cent above pre-war level, and ask whether the purchases have been made with due regard to economy, that is another question, whether it be clothing, or dresses, or shoes, or automobiles, the purchasers have the money and are ready to spend it. Crops were never so abundant or promising, and farm values have not been so high in years, and the same is true of wages.

There is no unemployment now anywhere worthy the name, but to the contrary there is marked shortage of labor throughout the land, and it is exceedingly difficult from one end of the country to the other, to obtain farm hands or domestic servants, even on the basis of extravagant wages. It is clear that this industrial revival is due to the buying by the farmer and wage workers. Mr. Dater says:

"Whether this or any other country can adjust itself permanently or for a considerable period to a basis of exorbitant prices is a question which time alone can answer. The truth is, of course, that the community appears to have accepted the higher values, without any great difficulty. Nor is there likely to be any material contraction in wages while the Government guarantee of $2.26 a bushel for wheat continues. As long as this uneconomic measure interferes with supply and demand there can be no reduction in breadstuffs and food products. This will have the tendency to hold everything at a high level and increase the cost of living, which stands now as the greatest obstacle in the way of a wage adjustment.

"Whether a situation such as this—a situation where many millions are burdened for the benefit of a special class—spells prosperity is a question which the future alone can answer. Thoughtful and prudent observers will hesitate in giving an opinion, realizing that while a day of reckoning must come that it may be long deferred, and realizing also that during the period of deference industry may gain such headway that no one will feel disposed to split hairs over it, but will come to regard it as an era of very great prosperity. But this artificial stimulus cannot affect all members of the community alike; there must be countless workers, to whom the high prices are a burden, not a blessing, whose incomes are fixed but whose expenses are doubled, and can experience little of satisfaction in a situation like this."

These are not the words of this newspaper, but those of a supposed, able financial writer in one of our leading magazines. Doubtless many will not agree with his views, but it is a newspaper's province to give different phases of a subject, leaving it to intelligent readers to make their own criticism.

Do We Eat Too Much?

One meal a day was the custom of the Greek patricians; the soldiers and plebeians had two; only the riffraff of the population ate three. And the Greek patricians were the healthiest of the population, and lived the longest. The moral is obvious—if you want to apply it.

BURBANK THE PLANT WIZARD.

There is an interesting article in the American Magazine on "Burbank at Seventy," which recites some of the struggles of the "plant wizard." At the beginning of his career he took a potato and cultivated it, and by painstaking experimentation he developed it into what is known as the Burbank potato, of which five hundred million bushels have already been sold. He sold that plant for $125 and spent the money on a trip to California in search of health and to find a larger field for nursery work.

After a terrible struggle against poverty and sickness he got a good start under the following circumstances: A fruit-grower was making the rounds of the California nurseries looking for twenty thousand young prune trees to be ready for planting in ten months. Not a nursery would undertake so impossible a task, but when Burbank, owner of the Santa Rosa, heard of this man he sought him and took the contract to furnish the trees. He planted almonds because they were of hurried growth, and when they sprouted they were removed to the nursery rows. Then he secured from the surrounding orchards prune buds. These were budded into the almond trees, and the tops of the young trees were broken off, which caused them to make a new growth. In a little over half of the ten months' limit young Burbank had delivered 19,023 prune trees ready for planting.

That was the beginning of his fortune and his fame. He claims that he is no "wizard," that what he has done has been done by hard work for the last forty years at ten to fourteen hours' work a day. But in his modesty he has minimized the real genius which he possesses, which makes him the master of the field and the benefactor of the race, and gives to Santa Rosa its world-wide fame.

EVERETT PROPOSES.

CHAPTER V.

I was delighted at the way Everett had ended his second letter. "Your fond friend," what could be nicer? It was different, too. Most letters I ever had either received or seen had been closed with "Yours sincerely," or "Very truly," or some other stereotyped phrase. I showed the few words at the close to Rose Grandon, because she was my chum. I was sorry that I did. She said she thought it silly for a man as old as Everett to write to me at all. I was angry with her for the first time since we were tiny girls. I wouldn't speak to her for two days.

I wonder if any one who reads my story will be interested in these little insignificant things I am telling so that what comes after may be plainer to them? I envy the REAL story writer who understands the technique of telling a story so that it will interest the public; yet perhaps a true story like mine may help some other girl to avoid my mistakes, and so be saved the sorrow that came to me because of them.

I always felt cross when Rose called Everett "old." Really after a little I had not thought of him as old at all. Just as fine and so wonderfully wise. That feeling I now know was caused more by his charm of manner when he exerted himself to please, than by anything he said.

Of course, I couldn't act with him as I did with the town boys. I shouldn't have dared. No girl of eighteen would have taken any liberties with a man as dignified as was Everett Graham. Yet after all his dignity was a source of pride to me. Now for another three weeks we corresponded regularly. Then the last of August he came to Lakeville again. This time for a two weeks' visit.

When he came to the house he did not spend much time talking to father as he had on his former visits. But asked for me immediately. To be honest he had to ask very seldom, as I was usually watching for him about the hour he called, and would walk to the gate to meet him.

He hardly looked at anyone but me this visit; although several of the girls acted anxious to be with him and talk to him—and that in spite of calling him "Grandpa."

Then one day he came when I was over making up with Rose. On my return I found him talking very earnestly with father.

"Come here, Sandra, father said very gently, his voice somehow different than I ever had heard it. 'Mr. Graham has asked my permission to marry you—if you care enough for him,' he added, as I made no reply. I couldn't! I was so astonished, so flattered, a good deal frightened, and a tiny bit glad.

That sounds like a regular hash, doesn't it? But that was the way it affected me.

"Can you care for me enough to marry me, Sandra?" Everett asked, taking my hand.

"I think so—yes, I think I can," I stammered, flushing and trembling. I remember that there flashed through my mind a wish that he had made love to me before he said anything about marrying, like they did in the novels I had read. Then came the other thought: that perhaps that was the way men of his age did. Maybe they didn't talk much about love, until after they were married. Perhaps they didn't think it was dignified.

So although I scarcely realized how it could have happened so quickly, when Everett left that afternoon I was engaged to him. He must have been awfully sure of me I thought, because he had a wonderful solitaire in his pocket. When I looked at it sparkling on my finger I knew that it would make all the girls envious. But after I went to bed that night I cried a little when I thought of that other wife. She had been first. Toodles had grinned when he saw my ring, and although he liked Everett, he had said:

"So you're going to play second fiddle, are you, Sandra?"

Tomorrow—"Playing Second Fiddle" Is Sandra's One Worry.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED AT A CHARMING PARTY

Mrs. George Morgan and Miss Hortense Morgan were hostesses at an announcement party and miscellaneous shower at the home of the former, on South Chestnut street Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Roseanna Hurley.

The lawn was beautifully lighted with Japanese lanterns and guests were served at small tables placed in the yard, and they were centered by small pink candles in holders. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the ices and cake served and small silk flags were used as favors.

guests, received a long distance call over the phone announcing the date set for the marriage of Miss Hurley to Mr. Milo Bowman as July 14. Mr. Bowman was recently discharged from the service and is now a motorman in Dayton. The evening was spent crocheting and sewing for Miss Hurley. Victrola music was much enjoyed. Every one present voted it one of the prettiest of the summer lawn parties. There were thirty present and Miss Hurley received many beautiful gifts, in china, cut glass and linens.

Mrs. William Sanders entertained at a china shower at her home Thursday in honor of Miss Hurley.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN OF ROSS TOWNSHIP AT G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

Although he is a Confederate veteran, Harvey Cummings, prominent Ross township farmer and stock man, never misses a state encampment of the Ohio G. A. R. While he was in Lima at the encampment recently he was featured as follows in a story in the Lima Evening Times:

Who would be the very last person you would expect to find in attendance at a G. A. R. encampment?

A Confederate soldier!

Sure! But he's here, and it's a good bet that he's enjoying the encampment fully as much as any of the northern soldiers.

His name is Harvey Cummings, and his home is down near Jamestown, in Greene county, Ohio. Cummings has a striking appearance. He has pure white hair, is very tall and straight as an arrow, and in characteristic Virginia fashion, winter or summer, wears boots. He is distinguished looking and you would pick him out of any crowd. His big southern hat and his "Yes, suh," makes you want to call him colonel.

Enlists as Boy.
When the Civil War broke out Cummings lived in Virginia. He was only 15 years old, but he thought the South was right and he offered his life to further its contentions.

He bore a charmed life all through the great conflict. He seemed to be able to get in all the big battles without the least effort. If there was going to be a real engagement, somehow his regiment was moved over to take part in it.

Cummings had narrow escapes galore. Of the regiment he started out with, but few went home after the war. They remained where they were.

The tall Southern Ohioan knows what war means. He knows what it is to sleep on the ground with nothing over and under you when the rain beats down and the shells from the enemy come over with great regularity. He knows what it is to see his close friends fall one by one; to lose his "buddy" and his chums. You can't tell him anything about war or about starvation—he was on the losing side!

Comes North.
But did Cummings decide to spend the rest of his days moping down in Virginia because the Yanks gave him and his friends a good licking?

Not on your life. Thrilled with the belief that the world was wide and that there might be something "up north" for him, after all, that was worth while, Cummings came direct to the little town of Jamestown after the war.

He tells himself that he had just 29 cents in his pocket when the land in the little Southern Ohio town. He had come to make his fortune, but right at that time he was just a little fearful that fortune wasn't going to beckon to him for some time to come.

Goes on Farm.
The young Southerner knew farming and he went right out the first day and secured a place on a farm. To make a long story short he is now known as "the Ross township cattle baron," and his fame spreads all over Ohio.

After a few years of farm labor he used his savings and bought a small farm. He worked night and day and soon had the place paid for.

Unlike some farmers he believed in every improvement, in every labor saving device, that came out. He went in for "finishing" feeding cattle for the foreign market. Before the world war the big buyers came direct to Cummings' farm when they wanted the extra beef. They had to pay for it, for Cummings knows the worth of live stock about as well as any living man. Now he has an immense farm in rich Ross township, Greene county, said to be the finest farm land in all Ohio. His sons have large farms, too, and they know what to do with the land.

Friend of Soldier
But the remarkable part of Cummings' story is that he is a staunch friend of the old soldier. It doesn't matter to him whether the soldier wears the blue or the gray.

The ex-Confederate attends every state G. A. R. encampment and every national affair. He has hosts of friends among the "boys" that he tried hard to kill years ago.

Nothing suits him better than to sit down and talk to any Northern soldier. And he can talk—because few soldiers are to be found who didn't take part in some battle in which Cummings was a part and parcel of the Southern army.

And the state records at Richmond, Va., show that the tall, white-haired man, with the southern drawl, performed several feats of bravery that in modern times would give him a distinguished Service Cross or a Croix de Guerre.

On Memorial Day.
Each Memorial Day Cummings marches with the Northern soldiers to the little cemetery and helps to decorate the graves of his old enemies. Enemies he has no longer for he loves the Northern soldier as he does his own. No soldier ever went to him for relief and came away empty handed.

He is an unusual character, this Cummings. You won't find one like him in all Ohio. And perhaps of all the Grand Army men in attendance at the big encampment you will find but few who don't know Cummings—and love him. They all do.

All His Brothers
He was a Confederate soldier—but all that is past and gone. He thought he was in the right and fought with the last ounce of energy to help the mistaken South to win. But once it was all over, Cummings accepted all Northerners as his brothers.

A marked success in life in a business way. Cummings has found the secret of living as well. Hunt him up in Lima today and you'll find he has a big band of friends about him. They will be fighting the old battles, and Cummings will be alone in showing how the "Rebs" did this and that. But there won't be any "fusses" about this and that. For, after all they're just brothers, talking about their boyhood days.

AN APT COMPARISON.

Doc—How so?

Because you're forever sticking your bill in my face.

Miracle of the Frost.
What a purifier of things in general is the miracle of the frost! How keen and fresh is the air! There is an exhilaration in it that none of the disadvantages can possibly take away. And the purity of the air is of such a nature as to kill the various foul microbes that infest the human system, and would work our ruin. All are now coming to know how beneficial to those suffering from tuberculosis is such air as this, so frost has its ministers of blessing as well as of injury. It is one of those cases where just enough is good and too much is very bad.

Few Now Search for Gold.
With the exception of the years of 1915 and 1916, when discoveries of tungsten brought a horde of wealth seekers to the Colorado hills, the search for gold has steadily diminished since the gold rush 25 years ago. At that time, old mining men say, the mountains were full of prospectors searching for new veins and placer deposits. The new generation has not followed in the footsteps of the old and one of the picturesque features of Western life is becoming extinct.

STORY IN OUTLOOK WILL BE OF MUCH INTEREST TO XENIANS

In "The Outlook" of May 28, 1919, is an article entitled, "Sister Ohio, a Memory of the Civil War," written by Lucy Seaman Bainbridge. The article sets forth in a very interesting way some of the striking experiences of a relief party hastily sent out to the front from Southern Ohio, in the spring of 1864, to do what they could for "these brave boys of ours who are sick, wounded and suffering, helpless and dying." One of the volunteers was the present Mrs. Bainbridge, at that time but a young girl just out of school. The head of the expedition—and this will interest many Gazette readers—was "the Rev. Mr. Prugh of Ohio, a clergyman of good standing."

As the narrative was read to him, the venerable Doctor Prugh recalled incidents, one after another, it brings to mind. He particularly remembers well the "little girl" of the expedition who was under his special guardianship; and had been wondering time and again what became of her.

It all resulted in opening up a correspondence and getting acquainted again. Following is quotation, in part, from letter of Mrs. Bainbridge, dated June 11:

"To say that I was delighted to receive your letter and the picture of your father, does not express my joy. I have been wondering many, many times, whether 'Father Prugh' was still in this land of the living—rather I should say this land of the dying. I am glad he remembers me. I have such a delightful remembrance of him and his kindness and care of me when I was a girl."

"You say you noticed the review and advertisement of my book in The Outlook. I am sure you would be interested in the story that I wrote of my experiences in lower New York. I am sending by mail a copy of the book as a gift to your father and to yourself. I hope he will be well enough, when it reaches you, to enjoy it."

The book mentioned has been gladly received. Its title is: "Helping the Helpless in Lower New York."

On the fly leaf is written: with the author's own hand, this touchingly sweet inscription:

To Rev. P. C. Prugh, D. D., with loving remembrance, from "Sister Ohio," L. S. B.

CCC CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS (OHIO)

"Remember this great Centenary celebration closes its gates on Sunday, July 13th."

Described by William C. Freeman, Associated with Paul Block, Inc., New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston.

The people of Columbus are to be congratulated that among their number, there are so many wonderful young men and women who have given freely of their time and talents to making the GREAT PAGEANT shown in the Coliseum nightly a great success.

In my time I have seen a great many remarkable stage effects, but the magnificent colorings displayed during the Pageant show, and the natural acting of the participants, surpasses anything I have seen.

D. W. GRIFFITH, THAT GREAT MOTION PICTURE PRODUCER, shares this view with me, or rather, I share his view of it, because, unquestionably, he is a better judge than I, for he personally reviewed it.

Yet I like what I like and can see with two perfectly good eyes what I like.

I like this Great Pageant Show immensely, and so will you.

The people of Ohio, and of everywhere, for that matter, are to be congratulated that there are always talented and unselfish volunteers among their number WILLING TO DO ANYTHING OR EVERYTHING TO PUT A GREAT CAUSE OVER THE TOP.

The local talent of Columbus, the capital of Ohio IS GREAT. It has produced a magnificent Pageant.

You must see the costumes and the stage color effects, which cost many thousands of dollars.

These alone are worth traveling a thousand miles to see. You will see at this CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS what has been accomplished by the splendid method and wisdom of America in educating and training the minds of peoples of other countries to whom have been denied the blessings we enjoy in such abundance.

You will see evidence of the development of character and industry—and what can be done when FAITH and HIGH RESOLVE get a foothold in the hearts and brains of human beings that were hopeless and helpless before they were touched by human kindness and sympathy, and assisted to self-respect.

WORK OF THIS KIND MADE THE CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS POSSIBLE. Personally I think it was an inspiration of God, carried out in magnificent detail by a group of men and women who are His devout followers.

Otherwise, I don't believe any group of human minds—brilliant though they may be in imagination and initiative—could have planned such a helpful, inspiring and thrilling exposition. I want you to feel as I do about this CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS.

When you see it, as I hope you will, you will get its lesson deep into your mind and heart as I have.

The more I see of it, the more I want to see.

When you enter the State Fair Grounds, Columbus—one of the beauty spots in the great State of Ohio—you will be immediately impressed with the crowds and the music and the laughter, and the happiness of everybody. You will get all day long, and until late in the evening, a combination of heart throbs and joys such as you have never experienced before.

When a celebration is capable of teaching a GREAT LESSON, besides contributing generously to one's pleasure and happiness, and knowledge I think it should be seen by every human being. Show by your presence that you are in accord with THE GREAT WORK being done by the splendid men and women who have staged this CENTENARY CELEBRATION COLUMBUS, so that you may see for yourselves how the $163,000,000 and more, generously contributed to the Methodists, will be applied in rebuilding the world.

You may see everything all day long for an entrance fee of 50 cents—and the GREAT PAGEANT in the evening for an extra 50 cents.

THOUSANDS SPEND FOURTH ALONG THE BANKS OF STREAMS

Pleasure hunters, those seeking surcease from work and evaders of hot weather, flocked to the banks and various cool and secluded places around this city Friday.

Thousands of Xenians and others picniced, bathed, boated and lounged in a fury of heat-avoiding. These thousands, however, were minus some one thousand fight fans who stayed in the hot city until after the return from the Willard-Dempsey battle at Toledo had been conveyed to their ears, through the medium of the Gazette and the Republican.

The automobile parade was started here early in the morning and machines formed a constant, ever-flowing stream along the highways and byways of the county until long after morning had again claimed the night. Auto picnic parties infested the roads like gypsies. Along river banks amateur fishermen languidly tossed baited hooks into the water and dozed off under the somnambulatory influence of the hot sun.

At Kilcare park some several thousand people gathered to celebrate the day. There were people from all over this section of the state gathered at the popular park Friday and the place was crowded with automobiles and humans.

Boating and bathing proved popular diversions for the pleasure seekers. The water bank was rimmed with bathers in gay bathing suits and the cool water was flecked with heads plowing above the surface.

Row boats and canoes vied with each other and all craft on hand was in use all of the time. Boaters sought shady nooks along the upper river and around Wildcat Islands and there spent the afternoon.

Despite the intense heat dancing proved a popular diversion and the floor was crowded for every dance from early in the afternoon until late at night. Mullen's orchestra from Dayton furnished the music which was very popular. The dance floor and the porch at the park were crowded all of the time.

The Tippecanoe City band furnished band concerts throughout the afternoon and evening at the park and in the evening fireworks were shot off from the opposite river bank. People in the park used the natural amphitheater provided by the rising banks from the river to witness the pyrotechnical display.

The D. & X. traction line ran double headers to Dayton all day besides a special car that ran to Kilcare every half hour, and the cars carried people to the Park from both ends of the line.

Automobiles were thick as at the Speedway races and were parked all over the huge enclosure. At one time in the evening the cars were jammed so thickly at the entrance gate awaiting a chance to get into the park, that it took from fifteen minutes to a half hour for some machines to pass the point.

At Bryan Park boating and bathing again featured and offered surcease to hot humanity. Dancing all day was enjoyed with the famous O'Neil's orchestra from Springfield furnishing the music. The park was crowded all day, there being many picnic parties from Springfield and other cities.

At Clifton auto parties picniced all day long and the cliffs proved quite popular. The natural scenery of the place popularizes it as a picnic resort. Many other places of natural scenery did not escape the pleasure seekers who struck for the country by the hundred from this city.

Easy to Keep All
Teeth Pearly White

It will be found quite easy to keep the teeth white, shining and free from discoloration by brushing them once a week with a new and remarkable product originated by a well-known dentist. While it contains nothing which might injure the enamel or gums, it will surely remove even the most obstinate stains and deposits.
The reason so many teeth are never thoroughly clean no matter how much they are brushed and scrubbed, is the presence of transparent films, or "plaques," so called which adhere to the tooth surface and which become discolored by dirt, decayed food, nicotine or other things. These films are really thin layers of fat—which accounts for that slippery feeling when touched with the tongue—and dentifrices do not penetrate them. They are completely and quickly removed by "Once-a-Week Tooth Polish," however, and the trouble will not reappear if this is used at regular intervals. It keeps teeth, gums and mouth in a hygienic condition and there is no surer preventive of stains, tartar, decay, soreness, or sponginess of gums. Any druggist can supply it.

The Way Your Tax Money is Spent

The following condensed information has been compiled for the citizen of Xenia, so that he may know what becomes of the money he pays in general taxes. For example, in 1918, he paid $15.30 on each $1000 property valuation. Note the following deduction:

Total$15.30
State45

Leaving$14.85
County4.35

Leaving$10.50
Township30

Leaving$10.20
Xenia City Schools4.50

Leaving$ 5.70
Interest and Sinking Fund for City3.10

Leaving$ 2.60

Total amount available from taxes for the city's direct operating expenses.

This $2.60 that the city commissioners receive from the $15.30 that you pay on each $1000 property valuation is every cent of money that they have from tax revenue and is all of such monies that are available for all the direct operating expenses of the city. To this amount there is added from all sources of miscellaneous revenue the income from license fees, rentals, interest, police court fines, and in the past the liquor tax. The miscellaneous income was about $10,000 in 1918 and now that the saloons are out it will only amount to less than $4000.00.

The $2.60 all that you pay into the city for its direct operating expenses plus the $4000.00 that is now received from miscellaneous revenue will raise $32,000.00. This is every cent that the city administration has with which to do the following work:

ADMINISTRATIVE COSTS.

Salaries and office expenses of employees$ 8364.00
Elections, legal advertising, judicial, interest, etc.1200.00
$ 9564.00

SAFETY—FIRE AND POLICE DEPARTMENTS

FIRE DEPARTMENT
Salaries$ 5200.00
Horses, motor apparatus, fuel, repairs, etc.1500.00
$ 6700.00

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Salaries$ 7000.00
Board of prisoners and incidentals500.00
$ 7500.00
$14200.00

HEALTH

Salaries, quarantine expenses and supplies$ 1750.00

SERVICE

Engineering$ 200.00
Street repairing and maintenance2500.00
Street cleaning (city's share)1000.00
Water for fire protection, sewers, fountains, etc.15000.00
Sewers, drains, ditches and sewage disposal2000.00
Bridges and viaduct1000.00
Public lands and buildings....2200.00

Grand Total$23900.00
$49414.00

It is impossible to meet expenses which aggregate $49,414.00 with only $32,000.00. The administration is therefore compelled to cut down the budget by doing only such work as is absolutely necessary to avoid serious damage to life and property and to only pay $6,400.00 (the old rate) instead of $15,000.00 the public service charge for water, as fixed by the State Public Utilities Commission.

The only solution, now that the state has refused financial relief and no city made a more earnest effort to get proper relief than Xenia did during the recent session of the legislature, is to purchase the water works, thereby saving the $9,000.00 we now fail to pay, and to put into effect an occupational tax to provide for revenue lost by the passing out of saloons.

When you feel that the city is not properly protecting your interests please think of the meager $2.60 that the city gets from each $1000 worth of property you are assessed for and recall all that the city furnishes you for that $2.60. You get police and fire protection; the enforcement of sanitary and health provisions; the operation of an excellent sewer system and sewage disposal plant; care and maintenance of streets, alleys, the viaduct and all small bridges, public lands and buildings; garbage disposal; city's share of street cleaning; the benefits of a large and ample storm sewer and drainage system; and the administration of the public business. Figure the number of thousands of dollars worth of property you have and multiply by $2.60 for each one thousand and determine what the above services costs you per year. To the majority it is not as much as is the cost of the least of any of the items of ones living expenses.

PER YEAR

Tobacco Bill$36.40
Candy15.00
Soft Drinks15.00
Picture Shows20.00
Oranges for Breakfast36.40
Telephone18.00
Magazines12.00
Cosmetics10.00

To the average family of Xenia the total cost of the city government, for direct operations, is not over $5.20 per year. Think of it! Your total tax of $15.30 for State, Township, County, City Schools and City is not more than the cost of the least of your other living expenses.

"My face and neck were one mass of sores; doctor said I had eczema and erysipelas. I had not slept for weeks with burning, itching pain. The first time I used San Cura Ointment
I slept all night and in a short time was completely cured."—Chas. Fay, Towndown, Pa.
"My wife stepped on a rusty nail and ran it into her foot. San Cura Ointment drew out a poisonous brown
pus and cured her promptly."—Eugene McKenzie, Plum, Pa.
"I had been afflicted for over thirty years with piles and spent over $500 for pile medicine. Two jars of San Cura Ointment cured me."—James
gene McKenzie, Plum, Pa.

Heat All Your Home with One Register

When you get out of bed on a bitter cold morning, how much it means to enjoy real warmth throughout your whole house!

And when you come in from the morning chores, what a comfort! Then after a long drive it's royal to get into a house that is warm and cozy.

And it's all so easy—and so economical. For about the price you would spend for heating stoves, that would heat part of your house only, you may have all the house warm, by installing the thoroughly tested and widely known

The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

IT SAVES 1/3 TO 1/2 THE FUEL

You will not know real heating comfort until your home enjoys the balmy circulation of healthful warmth produced by the Caloric.

Molly: "Were you much upset by the bank failure?"
Cholly: "Yes, I lost my balance."

Visitor (hungry)—"And at what time do you have dinner, my little friend?"
Terrible boy—"Soon as you've gone."

"What did George Washington do for his country?" asked the teacher. "He gave it an extra holiday," proudly answered a boy at the foot of the class.

"Books are wanted for the soldiers, Tommy."

"I got a nice arithmetic they kin have."

"Bill," said the poet, as he entered his friend's room, "a comma is a horrible thing."

"Wrong! I wrote a poem about my little boy, and began the first verse with these words: 'My son! My pigmy counterpart.'"

We learn from an exchange that an Englishman and a Scotchman, who traveled in Egypt together paid a visit to the Pyramids. The Englishman was lost in admiration and asked his companion for his opinion. The Scotchman shook his head sorrowfully. "Ach, mon," he said with a sigh, "what a lot o' mason work no' to be bringin' ony rent!"

A young lady entered a fur shop, and a polite salesman came forward. "I wish to get a muff," she said. "Yes'm," said the salesman; "what fur?"

The young lady looked surprised. "Why," she said, "to keep my hands warm, of course."

A certain rich old man did not approve of foreign missions. One Sabbath at church, when the offering was being taken up, the collector approached the millionaire and held out the bag. "The millionaire shook his head. "I never give to missions," he whispered. "Then take something out of the bag, sir," whispered the collector, "the money is for the heathen."
